Editorial . . .

By all objective criteria, the seventh form have never had it so good. This year they have been relieved of the necessity of wearing school uniforms. For two years they have had the restricting routine of classroom work varied by team teaching programmes, designed to make use of a comfortably-appointed new building, and to enable flexibility and variety in staff-pupil contact. The prefect system has been done away with, and the duties formerly undertaken by prefects have been shared by all seventh formers. They have had the use of three common rooms, and there has been a clear understanding that free periods may be used for relaxation. Any seventh former earnestly interested in pressing his own views has had ample opportunity to do so at the weekly meetings with the Principal and Senior Mistress and through the machinery of the School Council — an opportunity still not available in many New Zealand schools; and the School Council is not nearly as ineffectual in influencing school policy as its misinformed, and generally non-participant, critics would have us believe.

Yet the murmurings of ill ease, disillusionment, discontent, and even open rebellion, resignedly accepted by experienced teachers as the hallmark of any school's top class, have been scarcely any more subdued. Without being pressed too hard, many seventh formers will gladly make some fairly dogmatic assertions about the inadequacies of the education they have received this year, and dismiss quite airily any talk of improvements already effected. His school spirit, he will claim, has been repressed by official regulations — or, more detached, he will complain about the lack of school spirit among the new third formers. The quality of teaching he has been given has been of low standard, most of his teachers being no more interested in the subject than he is himself. Seventh formers have been pushed around too much by school authorities. They are not getting their school fees' worth. The list could be indefinitely extended. Without being specific about the changes he would like to see, he claims that the school is resisting change — in spite of considerable evidence to the contrary.

All of which is sadly disheartening to all those who have worked and planned for a seventh form setup which recognises that a pupil in his fifth year at school cannot be treated as a third former; that he should be given greater opportunity for the exercise of self-discipline; that he should be able to make up his own mind how hard he should work — and stick to the programme of work he has elected, without coercion.

Many, of course, have lived up to these expectations, and have fully justified the confidence placed in them. Others, unfortunately, — and these include some of the vociferous critics — have not done so. Of the latter group, some have had the honesty to admit that they needed more regular prodding, a discipline imposed from without. For despite the demanding of greater liberties — and the occasional arrogant assumption of them — the intelligent seventh former often has cause to bewail his waste of time and the fact that he did not push himself — or was not pushed — harder. While ostensibly asserting his adulthood, he is secretly alarmed by his own immaturity, and gropes for a secure path to tread.

One tends to fear that if our school has failed the seventh formers in any way, it is not because it has required them to toe a line they are reluctant to tread, not because it has destroyed their school spirit by banning clackers on the batter at athletics, but because it has not bred in them tolerance of the inevitable imperfection of any human institution or human being — because it has not destroyed that naive delusion of childhood that if their lives are not entirely thornless, someone else is to blame.

At a time in the development of the human race when masses are clamouring for even the most elementary education, it is both pathetic and scandalous that any of those who are in the top quartile of the world's population, as far as educational advantages are concerned should be so petty and self-interested as, like Caesar, to despise the base rungs by which they did ascend. Is it not ironic that education could be self-destructive; that the critical faculties developed by pupils by an education system should be turned against that system to its own destruction?

Destroy the system such negative criticism may not. Debilitate it, it almost certainly will. A school, it is often said, is made up of people, not of buildings. And if there are degrees of participation, no person is more a part of a school than a seventh former — what he is he owes largely to the school, and what the school is it owes largely to his leadership. Thus, the seventh former who tries to stand apart from the school, and from a position of self-imposed isolation berate its ills, is himself a most alarming symptom.

It is a fact of life that progress can stem only from dissatisfaction with the status quo; but it is not enough to detach oneself and laudly and dispassionately call attention to an insufficiency.

And for the onlooker who has heard all the moans before, from class after class of senior pupils, who has indeed been through it all himself, it is an even harsher fact that no group of humans seems willingly to learn from another, and that he will inevitably hear them all again.

STAFF CHANGES

RESIGNATIONS

Mrs J. E. Boyes, B.A. Dip. Tchg, to take an appointment at Kamo High School.

Miss J. Boyd-Wilson, Dip. H. Sc. Dip. Tchg., to travel overseas.

Mr G. A. Eng, M.A. Dip. Tchg., to undertake further university study.

Miss A. Everts, M.A. Dip. Tch., to another teaching appointment.

Mr P. G. R. Harold, N.Z. Adv. Tr. Cert. T.T.C. is returning to industry.

Miss S. M. Harris, M.Sc., to teach in another area in New Zealand.

Miss H. R. Hollyman, B.A. Dip. Tchg., to another teaching appointment.

Mrs C. R. Jurgeleit, B.A., is moving to the Wellington area.

Mrs E. A. Maskell, Dip. Tchg., to travel overseas.

Miss A. J. Palmer, B.Sc. Dip. Tchg., to a teaching position in Fiji.

Mr P. J. Plummer, T.T.C., for a study tour overseas.

Miss M. J. Prisk, B.A. Dip. Tchg., to a position at Wellington Girls' College.

Mr C. P. D. Regan, M.A. Dip. Tchg., on leave for a year's teaching overseas.

Mr D. G. Salter, D.L.C. T.T.C., to a teaching position in the South Island.

Miss D. L. Smith, B.A. Dip. Tchg., for an extensive tour of New Zealand.

Mr R. E. M. Hodge, M.Sc. ANZIC, has been appointed Deputy Principal of Birkdale High School which opens in 1972. As Dean of the Fifth Form and Head of the Science Department, Mr Hodge has taken a full part in school life and this has been reinforced by his interest in sport and social activities. We shall miss Mr Hodge as a valued colleague and wish him success in his new appointment.

Mr M. O. Nicholas, M.A. Dip. Tchg., left Rutherford after the 1970 magazine went to press to take up a position as Deputy Principal of Onehunga High School. In his seven years at Rutherford Mr Nicholas took a very lively part in school activities, as a Dean, as Head of the Social Studies Department, as coach of the First XV and as organiser of many field trips. We hear that he is enjoying his new appointment and wish him every success in the future.

Rutherford Memorial Day

Rutherford Day had been anticipated this year with special interest because Lord Rutherford's grandson, Professor Fowler, from the University of Bristol, had been invited as guest speaker. The Professor was paying a brief visit to New Zealand as part of the Lord Rutherford Centenary Celebrations.

The ceremony began with a short address by Mr Clark, in which he welcomed guests, among whom were Mr Cooper the Chancellor of Auckland University, Lady Marsden the widow of Sir Ernest Marsden, a colleague of Lord Rutherford, members of the Board of Governors, and wives and husbands of staff members. Professor Fowler, in his scarlet gown and cap with gold cords, was easily distinguished from the other guests.

Mr Clark, in paying tribute to Lord Rutherford, pointed out the efforts the school must make to justify the name it bears. He mentioned that this year had seen a number of "firsts" in the school's short history. These range from the first girl to win a University Scholarship, to the selection of the first ex-pupil All Black.

Professor Fowler chose to begin his speech in a somewhat historical vein which proceeded to an account of the highlights of Lord Rutherford's work. He emphasised that one way in which the great value of Rutherford's scientific discoveries can be seen is in the world's increasing reliance on nuclear energy because of the diminishing natural power resources.

This year marked a change in entertainment provided by the pupils. In place of the traditional massed singing, members of the school Operetta cast sang an extract from "The Pirates of Penzance", and the Maori Culture group presented two action songs and a poi.

After the ceremony, staff and guests enjoyed a splendid lunch served by the Homecraft Department.

Once again Rutherford Day was a very successful event in the School Year.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Now in its third year and with the absence of the prefects, the school council has become an integral part of the school administration. It has attempted many projects, some quite ambitious, and carried them off efficiently in all fields — fund-raising, social and administrative.

On the social side three dances were organised during the year, one for the senior school and two for the fourth formers — the first being so successful that another one was arranged. In addition council was delighted that a highly successful school ball was organised. All who attended enjoyed themselves and this without a doubt was the social highlight of the year.

Council decided to sponsor a Fijian boy so that he could play for the Fijian Secondary School's Rep. Rugby team in Auckland during the August holidays. Michael Fitisemanu's idea that the Boys' Indoor Basketball team play H.H.S. and that our pupils sponsor this game on a points basis was eagerly accepted. This was a most successful venture and we easily raised the $50 required.

Probably the most memorable outside activity was the Blood Donation Scheme. The response continued in years to come.

was good and this is one activity that will be

This is an impressive list of achievements and obviously the council has proved and established itself as part of the school. But there is still one sphere in which it has yet to achieve its full impact: the sphere of full council participation. Not all parts of the council have made an impact. Most of this list of credits is due to the work of a small dedicated group, particularly those on the 6th and 4th form councils. Special mention should be made of Adrienne Jefcoate, who in addition to chairing the 6th Council has worked very hard on many projects. In addition Donald Kerr, Ciny Kater, Carol Hood, Evelyn Cowan, Paul Connolly, Tricia Mills, Gay Laurence, Becky Ehau, Senni Kelderman, Becki Williams, Susan Waiti and Linda Stent deserve mention for their enthusiasm. This list is composed mostly of seniors but at the 3rd and 4th form level council and pupils generally did a first class job of promoting the school operetta and play. The experience gained here will be most valuable for 1972.

However, there are still those who are either not interested or too lazy to be bothered with Council and it is a great pity that those who moan about the inadequacies of the system do not get cracking and bring about remedies. Talking alone is useless — it is hard work which will bring about the changes and improvements you desire.

Council action may be slow but worthwhile changes don't happen overnight and in any case to make changes the council must have support.

The school council record speaks for itself this year and it would be a terrible retroactive step if it collapsed now from lack of support.

But the prospects seem good for next year and with the efficiency and success of this year combined with more support, the council will be able to continue to expand its activities. It could well be that Council of 1972 will be ready and capable of assuming some of the disciplinary duties once handled by prefects.

TAHITIAN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

This year Rutherford supported this scheme in a big way, finally accepting six students, after expecting only two. The four girls and two boys provided us with much useful information during their six weeks in classes with us. With typical Tahitian gaiety they managed to entertain us often, and the French language students did benefit considerably through trying to solve the communications problem.

Two weeks of the August holidays were spent in showing them as many places of interest in New Zealand as possible before they left on Thursday, 2nd September. Everybody was sad to see them leave, but when they did, it was with promises to return to New Zealand as soon as possible.

Everyone agrees that this exchange was very successful in promoting goodwill and a better understanding of the French and English languages.

RUTHERFORD PUPIL SUCCESS IN ENGINEERING

For the third time in the past five years pupils from Rutherford have had the distinction of gaining the highest marks in School Certificate Engineering Examinations in the Auckland Metropolitan area.

Thomas Nowak and Michael Keswick gained equal top marks, with Tom receiving a cup and prize from the Auckland Engineering Teachers'

Association for having the highest aggregate of four School Certificate Subjects.

Other pupils to gain highest marks in previous years who attended Rutherford were Clifford Wrightson in 196, and Bruce Wheaton in 1969.

Another ex-Rutherford pupil, Murray Shepherd, who took Engineering, has also distinguished himself this year by being named apprentice of the year at the Engineering firm of Mason Brothers, Auckland.

LANGUAGE EVENING

On Thursday night, 29 th July, the library once again captured the continental atmosphere of a boulevard cafe. This was achieved by Mrs Gunn, and the fifth form German class, and Mrs Sommerville and 3N art class with dim lighting, beautiful posters, well worn wine bottles and checked tablecloths in the traditional French and German colours. The items performed were generally of a high standard notably 4th Form German with 'Rotkappchen' (Red Riding Hood).

No doubt the highlight of the evening was the supper. As usual, it rained, but this didn't prove too much of an obstacle and everyone managed to cross over to the cooking room to enjoy a truly continental supper. This had been prepared under the expert direction of Mrs de Jongh, Miss Brame, Mrs Apathy (who excelled in her 'escargots') and Miss Esler aided by sixth and seventh form enthusiasts. The Tahitian girls produced an excellent "poisson cru" which proved an enormous success after the first cautious tasting. The main dishes included Husar Salat, Fromage Fondu, Reis mit Fleischklosschen and gateaux.

After hot coffee everyone dashed back to the library to join in the dancing. Everyone enjoyed themselves tremendously and at 10.30 the successful evening was ended rather reluctantly with the traditional French and German songs. Our thanks to everyone who made this evening possible, especially to those who helped clear up afterwards.

SPEECH COMPETITION, 1971

The code name for this operation was 'Phoenix'. At first it looked as if it would be a shambles but out of it rose a speech competition that was something quite fantastic. Thanks to everyone who entered.

We specially like to compliment the senior school on their unequalled apathy regarding entering the competition.

Mr Eng is dying to be mentioned in dispatches —so, we can thank him for doing most of the work. The honours go as follows:—

Winners

Junior Prepared:

- 1 = Senni Kelderman on 'Apartheid?'
- 1 = Jenny Adams on 'Youth and Protest'

Junior Impromptu:

- 1 Lindsay Vickers on 'The Generation Gap'
- 2 Senni Kelderman on 'Sharks'

Senior Prepared:

- 1 Ino Kelderman on 'Man's Relationship to God'
- 2 Robert Pickering on 'Biology and the Future'

Senior Impromptu:

- 1 Stephen Crane on 'Vending Machines'
- 2 Hugh Boniface on 'Legs'

As usual the impromptu speeches provided the laughs and the prepared speeches dealt with the more serious, controversial topics. The contest was held in the team teaching room and the winners of the prepared speech had the dubious pleasure of giving their speeches at assembly.

An extra big thanks to Miss Pountney (ex-Rutherford English teacher, now lecturer at Teacher's Training College) for doing the judging in the finals.

Closing Comment: What is the flaw in the New Zealand character that makes it suspicious of gesticulation or emotion in speeches?

Our Sponsorship Scheme

Our Sponsorship Scheme has again benefitted this year from the many novel ways which pupils found to swell the emptying coffers. Taking over Mum's kitchen proved very popular with 3J, 4G, 3I and 5F. Many delicious contributions appeared on cake stalls at morning interval — a welcome change from the usual doughnut. Others decided that elbow grease was the answer. 5B added to Rutherford's well-groomed appearance by organising a shoe-shine. Staff cars sparkled in the sun after much sloshing and hard rubbing by 4G. Certain individuals ran very successful stalls in their own neighbourhoods — Ross Brett, Marianne Turner and Debra Cass were of this number.

The Lunch-hour Pop Group and the General Studies class newspaper provided entertainment while raising funds at the same time. The Girls' Senior Indoor Basketball team challenged the women staff members to a match. They raised a tidy sum from the spectators who flocked to cheer them on.

3H won the SCF shield by collecting the greatest number of tea coupons. At the present time, quite a number of our third and fourth formers are exhibiting extraordinary powers of salesmanship. Over two hundred dozen ballpoint pens will have been sold by the time this competition closes.

We must not however, forget those regular weekly contributions which make up the bulk of our income. 3B and 3J are the champions in this respect, averaging almost $1 per head.

All our children continue to make progress and are able to stay at school with your help. Efthymia Adrahta has now migrated to a new life in Australia, and the Pak Ki Jo family and Edward Nxumalo are able to be independent of our help. Five cents a fortnight is very little, but to somebody overseas it means the assurance of a continuing education and a brighter future.

FIJI FIELD TRIP

This year, during the August holidays, a very successful tour of Fiji was arranged by the Social Studies Department. The party consisted of 18 girls and 12 boys, accompanied by the following staff members:

Miss Hollyman, Miss Prisk, Mrs Boyes, Messrs Laver, Cumming, Coughlan and Sinclair.

The arrangements for the trip were set in motion by Mr M. O. Nicholas before his departure for Onhunga High School, and finalised by Mr J. Sinclair.

A copy of the itinerary, and some articles giving impressions of aspects of the tour follow.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

I nonchalantly boarded the DC8 which awaited to take me to the island paradise which was littered with palms, blue lagoons and coral atolls within swimming distance.

Coming down to earth figuratively and literally, after a hot, sticky flight with people vomiting as well as chewing gum madly to stop their ears bursting, we landed at Nadi International airport. The weather was drastically different from what we left in Auckland, Auckland being cold, wet and miserable. Nadi was sticky, humid and 79°F at 12.30 a.m.

We walked for miles, waited for hours and finally boarded our bus with a copy of a newspaper not the lai I expected. The air was a mixture of beautifully fragrant Frangi pangi and stale incense, but once the bus was underway and the air circulating the smell wasn't so overpowering. We passed through Nadi which is a clutter of wooden shops and thatch houses, the former, having boarded-over windows or at least steel bars protecting their goods. There were no night-clubs, hotels, apartment buildings, or even state type houses, which I expected. On the roadside sugar cane workers huddled around trees and in the distance parts of the horizon glowed with the light from the cane fires.

We finally arrived at the school which was a one storied concrete building with verandahs along the front. We hopped out of the bus to find the ground crawling with toads. Cries of fright from the girls and shouts of glee from the boys spurred us on to the rooms where we organised our sleeping bags on the floor and finally fell asleep. Everyone had a restless night worrying about the invasion of frogs or the fact that thugs would steal our goodies.

Our first dark view of Fiji was alarming but exciting and mysterious. The next day promised to be even better.

A VISIT TO A NADI SUGAR CANE FARM

We happened to be the lucky group visiting the farm of an absentee landlord. Absentee is an understatement. His farm was merely the basis of his many activities, school management, store-keeper, local Rotary president to name a few of the more obvious ones. We gathered he was wealthy from the way he continually referred to himself.

I'm adding a building on down at the back of my house, which is going to cost me $2,000, or by casually mentioning his sons, all of which he had sent to a New Zealand university. Mind you, it's not that we weren't impressed by his wealth, but just in case we missed some vital point he enlightened us . . . continually. Basically he was a genuinely nice person — basically.

Well, about our visit to his 15 acre farm. Imagine 8 of us squeezed into his car (relatively packed, as it happened) I am sure the staff with us got mighty fed up with our host's main topic of conversation, namely himself, all the way there and all the way back.

On the way to the farm we passed his house and his school, both of which we were invited into, then we were surrounded by 15 acres of 'my' sugar farm (even though farms are jointly owned). The cane cutters were in action and we were told they earned $42.00 weekly if they were hard working and the bullocks — great massive beasts, about ten of them, all busily grazing on cut sugar cane, tied to the land only by a small thin piece of rope. We stayed on higher land — not because we were afraid; it was just that a better vantage point was gained from the higher level.

Boys of Queen Victoria School provide entertainment.

After we had been on the farm a quarter of an hour our host decided it was time to drink, and, to all intents and purposes it looked, smelt, and tasted like water the rain had left behind; we formed a 'NON DRINKING UNION' and through accidental means the ground received more Kava than we (don't really think it was clever in the light of our recent knowledge but that's what we did — while they watched).

After a quick tour through his garden (of market garden portions) we all learned the difference between binda and sugarcane, variegated tapioca and treepeas.

Sugar cane train at Nandi.

Once again we crammed into his car and doing a moderate 20 - 30 m.p.h. zoomed off to see 'his' school and enjoy the hospitality of 'my' house:

a very posh one to their standards. However, we were an ungrateful lot because while we were drinking his coffeed-up sugar we were all worried about missing our airport club swim and finally, after continually hinting about the other parties and various 'sorry but no' answers to his repeated offers of looking at his photo albums we left. As I said before, basically, he was a really genuine person.

The Free Train to Ba

At 5.00 a.m. as the dawn peeped through our mosquito nets we crawled out of bed to catch the 7.00 a.m. free sugar-cane train to Ba. The train consisted of a long line of carriages for carrying the cut cane and a passenger carriage (similar to the cane carriage). We sped along at a breathtaking 7 m.p.h. and viewed the glorious countryside of sugar cane and sugar cane and more sugar cane from our open carriage. We passed through several villages whose main source of income was the sugar plantation. At various places villagers climbed aboard, we even managed to strike up conversations with several; two small girls were going hand fishing—literally, picking the fish from the water with their hands. One Fijian woman spent a concentrated hour or so picking the lice from her daughter's hair, much to the delight of Miss Prisk. Occasionally a brown arm would reach out and pick up some sugar cane, peel it and then suck the fibres for the sweet juice. We all became quite addicted to this on our trip. One Indian boy peeled it with his teeth and then handed it to me—it tasted even sweeter that time!

In all, it was a delightful trip to Ba — one we would have hated to have missed.

Suva

We liked Suva — especially in comparison with the dry side of the island. All the flowering bushes and trees one expects to see are there — hibiscus and frangipangi — all in gardens just filled with colour. Even the shantiest shacks look pleasant with these surroundings.

Sightseeing at a village on Qoma Island.

We had a wonderful introduction to Suva when Marist Brothers supplied us with an unexpected, but extremely welcome lunch. We were most comfortable there — with one hot shower to use for a change! Luxury!

We did all the touristy things — a tour of Suva including watching the guards change at the Government House — and a group of Fijians fishing by trying to drive fish into a circle and their nets. Unfortunately, they didn't catch much, but they were practically in the centre of Suva. We also had a superb day out on the coral reef from Suva in a glass-bottomed boat. The coral wasn't the colours or shape we had expected, but we did enjoy basking in the sun, and the water was most pleasant. Full marks to Jackie and Mr Laver for spending almost all day with their heads down, tails up searching for shells and nasty creatures of the deep.

A non-tourist trip was out to the Agricultural Research Centre not far from Suva where we saw padi rice growing (good geography) and odd types of cows bred for tropical conditions.

Heard about a Jersey-Brahmin cross, but didn't see it, but we all fell in love with all the little pigs — almost adopted a few.

Thanks to Laver's economies in the kitchen, we had money left to go dine and dancing at the "Tradewinds" as a farewell gesture. All agreed it was a marvellous place — obviously for the wealthy who sail their 50ft yachts up to the dining room. Needless to say, we arrived on a 40 year old bus, but we thoroughly enjoyed posing as monied tourists! Our evening consisted of a swim for those without hair-dos, lots of soft drinks (?) in beer bottles, and a pleasant meal including Kokoda — delicious raw fish! — and dancing.

But Suva to most of us was the shopping centre.

We loved the markets, Cumming St. Rainbow woods, and Gokals — where we purchased 1,000 dollars worth of duty-free goods.

Suva Markets

The markets are situated on the outskirts of the main shopping area in Suva. The actual market is a semi-enclosed building made of corrugated iron with a concrete floor.

The shock begins and the confusion starts immediately one enters into the market area, because this is where the real bartering act is to be learned. Each stall-owner encourages all shoppers to come to his stall, and immediately he busies himself by thrusting items (ranging from woodware to baskets and jewellery) in front of the visitors. If anyone shows signs of hesitation or even disinterest the price is sharply dropped to ensure a sale.

Cooling off in a pool at Levuka on the island of Ovalau.

These stalls fill the market place and appeared to be owned mainly by Indians (selling Fijian handicrafts!!). The whole family helps on the stall and during the process of bartering. The family often discuss the price in their native tongue before relenting to the visitor's price.

Outside the market building is the main area where fruits and vegetables of all colours and descriptions spill out to meet the buyers. How would you like to pay ten cents for ten sweet, ripe bananas and only five to ten cents for a luscious pineapple?

Beyond these fruit stalls, surrounding the footpath, are a number of carts with displays of jewellery. An Indian man will catch one's eye and pull one's arm to make his stall the place to buy.

Tourist: "How much does this cost?"

Owner: "Oh . . . $3.50".

Tourist: "No, $2.25."

Owner: (with an air of disgust) "Oh no, cost me $2.00. Say $3.00."

Tourist: (determined to win) "$2.50."

Owner: "$2.50."

The tourist then begins to move towards another stall only to be tugged back by a sheepish-looking Indian who reluctantly sells the necklace for $2.25.

The overall impression of the markets cannot be written but is vivid in the minds of all who have seen this interesting and colourful spectacle.

Fiji Time

"Time is not what it used to be" might well be the catch — phrase of New Zealanders in Fiji. For Fiji time and New Zealand time are quite different as a certain school group discovered.

Fiji time has an estimated uncertainty of plus or minus two hours, but unless one has been lucky enough to visit Fiji before, one has no way of knowing this as it's one vital piece of information which doesn't feature in the travel brochures. Certainly it isn't important to the Fijians, but it's just a little frustrating to a group leader when he's trying to organise a smoothly-running itinerary. Don't you agree, Mr Sinclair!

Let me give you some examples of Fiji time to show you what I mean.

Changing the guard at Government House, Suva.

A group staying in Ba plans to lunch in Raki-Raki. It is told to rise at 5.30 a.m. as the journey is a long one. The group arrives for lunch at 9.45 a.m. — only two hours too early!

Or the same group might arrange to catch a 9 a.m. ferry from Natori to Ovalau, but the boat fails to arrive till 11 a.m. — only two hours late!

You want a third example? Well, the same group, while in Levuka might decide to go on an expedition up to 'Lookout Point' to admire the view. It is told the "walk" is a short one taking only 20 minutes. However, some two hours later various members of the group can still be seen trudging to the top!

Yes, this is "Fiji time"! Surprisingly enough, one does get used to it after some "time".

Levuka — The original capital of Fiji.

We had been told that Levuka, on the island of Ovalau was the most affluent of the Fiji Islands, but the validity of this became more doubtful the further along the dirt road we walked. The stores were of decaying wood which badly needed repairing and the grimy windows almost hid the week-old cakes and odd assortment of wares. However, at this point our spirits were quite high and we quickly organised ourselves in our quarters at Levuka High School. We were longing for food, and were somewhat dismayed to learn that our lunch at the local hotel had been cancelled without our knowledge because the owner and his staff had decided to attend a local wedding. King's Cafe was recommended to us, so off we went!

How deceptive names can be! We could never have imagined anything more unfit for any king. Only our acute hunger and the fact that Levuka could not offer us any other eating places, prevented us from turning away. With hesitant steps we entered the sleazy building doing our best not to notice signs such as "Spitting is Unhealthy" on the walls. After all, decor wasn't really important to us. Our minds were pre-occupied with thoughts of food — that is, until we saw it in front of us. So this was lunch Levuka-style — eggs literally dripping with grease and two great wedges of bread served with coffee of a most delicate shade. Because of the absence of any eating utensils we were at first somewhat puzzled as to how we should transfer the grease-balls (alias eggs) from plate to stomach, but we soon found that fingers served the purpose nicely. After the first couple of bites, we barely noticed the grease slowly dribbling from our elbows. The staff in particular were very messy here, but they gallantly soaked up all traces of splattered fat with chunks of bread and the one paper tissue they had in common!

Strangely enough, King's Cafe did not impress us greatly, but it did make us extremely appreciative of Mr Laver's evening meal which, incidentally, was cooked with the most inadequate facilities.

On the following day, it had been arranged that we would visit a local native village and be treated to a "Kava" ceremony. In preparation we had bought "yanggona" roots which were part of our customary gift to the chief, but unfortunately we experienced our second cancellation in Levuka. Our guide had been stranded on an outlying island and we could do nothing without an interpreter. It was disappointing, but instead we were shown around the Japanese Fishing Base — the centre of Levuka's wealth, 1,500 cans of tuna were packed here each day for export to U.S.A. and Japan.

Maybe Levuka was the most affluent of the Islands, but if so, its prosperity was not reflected by the ordinary man in the street or the dwellings in which he lived. Rather it was poverty which seemed more apparent to us. The people who emerged from the various broken-down shacks had dull, sombre expressions — so different from the cheerful friendly Fijians we had just left in Natori. It was here also that we encountered two beggars — a somewhat unnerving experience as Mr Cumming will no doubt agree. We were told that the police had made a recent raid on local "houses of ill-repute", and consequently many unfortunates had resorted to begging for money.

Levuka was indeed a strange place with an atmosphere all of its own. It gave the impression of having been abandoned suddenly twenty years ago, and the people, on their return, seemed to have done nothing to change it. It was here that the sun never shone, and the mist never lifted from the hilltops. With little effort we could imagine evil spirits lurking there, although those of us who gallantly climbed one peak were accosted only by jagged rocks and unyielding vegetation. Mind you, that was enough to grapple with, judging from the spectacular bruises and aching limbs which returned.

This, then, was Levuka — dismal yet interesting; eerie, but fascinating.

Qoma Island

'The rich get richer, and the poor have children.' This quotation from Lady Cunard could quite well sum up the appalling situation facing the villagers on Qoma Island. On a very small acreage are crammed 500 inhabitants and a very large proportion of these are children afflicted with an assortment of diseases ranging from eyes to bloated stomachs. It is almost impossible not to feel sorry for these people. They have to row to the mainland daily to collect water for only the bare necessities.

Backwardness is also a feature of the island. The bathing hole was literally a breeding ground for diseases. It was stagnant, fairly shallow and had a pungent smell. Gallantly and persistently the villagers are trying to make the best of a bad job. They have no flowing water, but realising their importance of cleanliness, dutifully row the half mile to the mainland. Geographically, the island also presents its own problems. There are three islands in the group, but sensibly the Fijians have used two for habitation and one for agriculture, making them fairly self-sufficient.

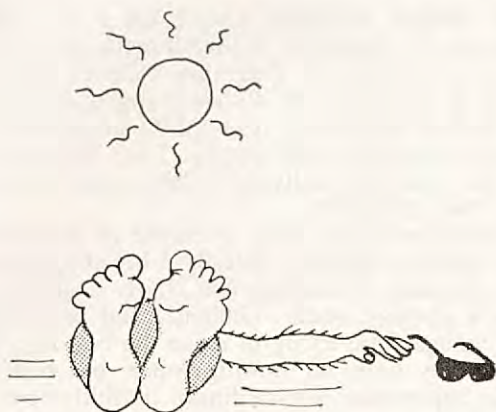

While on the island, the Kava ceremony was performed for us. We seated ourselves on woven mats in the Chief's hut and our interpreter proceeded to tell the Chief how pleased we were to be able to visit his village. The Chief was handed Yangana roots, which were then powdered and sieved through water to make the drink. In absolute quiet and sincerity the Kava bowl was handed to a person, whereupon he was obliged to clap twice before and after drinking and also 'down it' in one motion. This ritual was performed by every person in the party. The Kava had a peculiar numbing effect on the mouth and could certainly be termed an acquired taste.

The future of the Island and its friendly populace is vague and not too promising. It is rapidly expanding in population, but the island itself is being reclaimed by the sea. Unless the villagers can adapt to birth control and medical attention, little hope can be expected for them in a rapidly expanding Fiji, economically and politically. Education will also become paramount in the near future and if what we saw was a reflection of the whole Island's standard of education, then they have a long way to go before even reaching the national average.

Queen Victoria School

Queen Victoria School — probably the highlight of our Fijian tour! It was here that we sampled the charm and warmth of the Fijian personality to the fullest.

From the moment we arrived — and we were very late because of our temperamental bus which spluttered and stopped frequently en route — we were made to feel extremely welcome. Without even initial hesitation, the boys of Q.V.S. extended their hospitality and answered at length the many questions put to them about their way of life, attitudes, and ambitions. These boys were the "cream" of the Islands, many being the sons of Chiefs. They felt proud to be at Q.V.S., and were prepared to strive to gain the most from their education. We were most impressed by their intelligence and maturity and obvious willingness to shoulder responsibility. They virtually organised themselves at school, choosing their leaders from the boys they most respected. The general atmosphere and friendliness of this school was most infectious, and many of us were surprised to find ourselves so outgoing. The boys accompanied us to two Fijian villages where we sampled "kava" for the first time. At the local village they not only acted as interpreters, but also provided traditional music to accompany the ceremony. We joined wholeheartedly with the villagers in the traditional dancing which we thoroughly enjoyed.

To add to our delight, the Q.V.S. boys entertained us that evening with a "meke" — an action song relating the history of the Islands. This provided an excellent introduction to an evening of dancing to the mighty sound of Fijian voices, guitars and drums. Even the most introverted of our group could not resist entering into the festivities.

In all, this was a delightful visit — surely one of the most memorable of our Fijian tour.

The Modern Myth

A typical Fijian girl — very happy-go-lucky and with the Fijian ability to enjoy life to the full, has been fortunate enough to receive a highly valuable, and expensive education up to School

Certificate level. She finds on returning to her native village, that she can apply this education very well to her village life of shifting cultivation — for example, by conjugating the accounts while packing them into woven baskets to be taken to the markets and sold. Or she can estimate the average yield of coconuts per tree; or even better, calculate the approximate volume of milk in a coconut in cubic inches (not centimetres).

However, does her knowledge of these things serve to increase the yield of coconuts, or the amount of milk in them? Despite her new educational competence, and her busy efforts to use it, the girl finds that she is now somewhat dissatisfied — something is missing. She is no longer able to enjoy her simple life in the same way as she used to.

DEBATING

The Debating Club was re-formed this year after its collapse in 1970. Previously the club has combined debating and public-speaking, but this year it has concentrated on debating. Attendance was small, and because of lunch-time meetings it was unofficially restricted to senior pupils. Several debates were held between members of the club early in the year but these had to be held after school and audiences were very small.

Despite its serious lack of support from both pupils and staff, the Debating Club was one of the most successful Rutherford has been represented by in inter-school debates. In the first round of the Jaycee Secondary School's Debating Contest in the second term, Rutherford was drawn against Kaipara College. The topic was 'That National Service training is a waste of taxpayer's money' and Rutherford, for the affirmative, won. In the second round Rutherford was drawn against Massey High School — but Massey defaulted. This put the Rutherford team into the semi-finals of the contest — this is the first year the school has reached the semi-finals. Rutherford was drawn against St Dominic's, last year's overall winners, and the topic was 'That Maori art and language be compulsory at schools'. The Rutherford team lost to St Dominic's, hardly encouraged by an audience that included only half-a-dozen Rutherford supporters.

After the Jaycee contest the Debating Club was no longer active. There are doubts too, as to whether it will be re-activated next year, with the school being so reluctant to acknowledge its existence.

Members of the club would like to give their thanks to Mr Eng, who gave them their only substantial help and support throughout the year.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE

Continuing the policy of previous years the opera group again presented a Gilbert and Sullivan production. This year it was the ever-popular "Pirates of Penzance". Rehearsals began in February and continued throughout the first and second terms (often every night after school as well as Sunday afternoons). The performances were during the second-to-last week of the second term and by this time the large cast and chorus had built up a "big family" feeling so that final night appeared to many as a sad occasion when the "family" would, of necessity, split up.

As in previous years the production was complemented by the Augmented Night School Orchestra, of about 24 players, which reaches a very high standard with the accompaniment and shows an improvement from one year to the next.

"The Pirates of Penzance" was presented for four performances on August 10, 11, 13 and 14,

The cast of "Pirates" was as follows:—

Ricky Pope	- - -	Major General Stanley
David Smart	- - -	Samuel
Lindsay Vickers	- - -	Frederic
Ian Hogg	- - -	Sergeant of Police
Fiona Colinson	- - -	Mabel
Frances Veldhoen	- - -	Edith
Moira McKay	- - -	Kate
Margaret Arthern	- - -	Ruth
Lynn-Elizabeth Morris	- - -	Isabel

A large chorus of girls, pirates and policemen completed the picture. Of particular interest to the audience were the Sergeant and his bumbling police who created much amusement with their "Keystone Cops" routine. Special thanks are due to the old pupils who came back to take part in the cast or in the orchestra.

On the production side many people assisted in a multitude of ways with scenery, props, costumes, make-up and all the other aspects of "Shop Biz" which assist a smooth-running production. Special mention should, however, be made of Mr Reid whose sets were up to his usual high standard, Mrs Ashman and Miss Langford whose considerable help with costumes was much appreciated, and Mrs Lewis, Miss Kwan, Mrs Dunn and Miss Palmer who contributed greatly to the chorus training.

As in previous years the overall producer and director was Mr Holibar, to whom once again the school is deeply indebted for the thoroughness and professionalism of the production.

DRAMA

Drama at Rutherford, which has always been somewhat erratic, this year saw a burst of enthusiasm and the inauguration of some new activities under the guidance of the Drama Executive. Plans began immediately after the somewhat timid success of "Romanoff and Juliet" for this year's play. The Executive launched into "Oh, What a Lovely War", a Joan Littlewood Theatre Workshop play. It was an ambitious venture, which taxed to the limit the talent of the large group of students and the Rutherford stage, let alone the patience of the producer (Miss Baume), and the musical director (Mrs Apathy).

Despite the prolific ad-libbing and improvisation of equipment, music, and even people, we succeeded in substantially presenting something that hinted at the original play. We were blessed again with a tremendous set painted by Mr Green, excellent lighting set up by Mr Davies and a newly-trained crew, the benevolent and peaceful stage management of Mr Stubbs, and the inand played to good audiences whose enthusiasm was most heartening for those in the production. The Saturday night's performance, in particular, helped to make this a most memorable last night which was topped off by the cast and orchestra supper and get-together at the end of the show.

spired make-up done by Mr Laver. Anne Fisher survived a gruesome ordeal as a pianist in a show which couldn't afford to hire the score, and the whole cast lived through the major calamity of a rival Mercury Theatre production to bring to the stage a creditable performance of this bittersweet look at war.

Up until the second term, most of our work revolved around the play; with it behind, we still felt that there was room for drama in the school. So we set about various activities. Monday night's rehearsal turned into a Drama Club which ranges from out-of-school ex-pupils through to one enthusiastic third former. The response was good — which is more than can be said for the acting at all times. The former Senior Drama Executive hopes to set itself up in the community as an independent group. A small group of the players envisages an itinerant Christmas show to tour some of the old folks' homes and hospitals in the vicinity. . . . All these branchings-out still have their teething pains, and it is to be hoped that they can achieve what we are really aiming for — an enjoyment of live drama, both by audience and participants.

CRUSADERS

The Crusader Group has been functioning for four years now and is part of a world-wide movement within High Schools. The aim of the Crusader Union is to share the Christian message with other students.

The programme is arranged by a group of pupils who represent all age-groups within the school. It ranges from Bible discussions to missionary speakers and social activities.

On a number of occasions this year we have had students responsible for the programme which has added interest for those listening and experience in leadership for those concerned in taking part.

The highlights of the year have been discussions on "Happiness" and "Does God pass your exams for you". Also on the programme we have had very interesting tales from the experience of missionaries when on the mission field and for the fun times we have had a barbecue at Carey Park and similar such outings.

For the enthusiastic students, who base their lives on the Bible, there is a Junior and Senior Bible Study during a lunch hour. There is also a prayer time once a week at interval because Christians see prayer as communication with God.

"Life is communication, Prayer is life".

This year has provided a variety of stimulating times for all those involved in Crusaders and we would like to see more students sharing in the fellowship.

As from next year the Crusader Union will be known as the Inter School Christian Fellowship.

LIBRARY REPORT 1971

What is the library for? To some, it provides a quiet haven from the rush and bustle of school life, to others a refuge from wind and inclement weather. To some, it exists to supply the needs of inquiring minds, or to provide light reading for week-ends and holidays.

Our library fulfils all these functions and many others besides. On winter days it is overcrowded; during the end of year stocktaking, it is patently inadequate for the number of books kept. During balmy February days it appears to be unused, whilst in the middle of winter it obviously cannot meet the needs of its readers; the shelves are bare.

It is a fine library run by a hard-working team of assistants. Mrs Parker, the Librarian, has a range and depth of knowledge about books and their readers which is invaluable. Mrs Kelleway and Mrs Wooller devote more than their allocated time to provide those services which are a keynote of our library. Mrs Bean, Mrs Crawford and Mrs Jefcoate have all been very generous with their time, working voluntarily to keep the library functioning. Without their help the library would not have been able to fulfil properly its place in the life of the school.

Pupil assistance has been somewhat erratic this year. Although many have offered, few have persisted; fewer still are prepared to learn from the bottom up. Split lunch hours have prevented seniors teaching juniors the skills and tricks of the trade. Nevertheless, excellent workers, such as Hugh Dormer, Virginia Waters, Elizabeth Fisher, Michael Drake and Andrew Bryant have done much to serve the school through their efforts in the library.

When we look ahead, we should be able to see that a vast potential exists. Rarely are we able to provide the services that we know we should be able to do. In the future, too, as learning becomes more research orientated, and team teaching and other methods introduced, the library will need to change its function to include all those non-book materials which at present are scattered around the school and not being used by pupils nor staff.

It is unfortunate, then, that the library continues to be limited by the manpower resources which it is permitted to employ. The future of any library depends ultimately upon the staffing it receives, for only then can it make fullest use of the resources it has.

TRAMPING CLUB

This year the Tramping Club has been run as an independent school club without help from outside organisations. Most of our trips have been in the Waitakeres along familiar and new tracks and sometimes where there are no tracks!

Amongst the highlights of the year there was the very successful Family Day which despite the weather, was enjoyed by all. During the May holidays, a small party visited the Kaueraunga Valley in the Coromandel Forest Park. These "hardy souls" came back with tales of "Steps in the Rock", the "Billy Goat" and an ascent of Table Mountain.

Five senior boys were guests of the Alpine Sports Club on a "tough trip" in the Kaimai Ranges — by all accounts a thoroughly enjoyable trip. Further trips for Term 3 will probably include day trips, a hut week-end and possibly an end-of-year trip to one of the National Parks.

We wish to thank all the people who have helped the Club this year — staff, parents and friends of the school — we hope you enjoyed yourselves, too.

THE SCHOOL BALL

For the second time the senior school excelled itself and ran a very successful ball. After a rather hesitant beginning, the arrangements got underway and the machinery ran quite smoothly prompted by an oil can wielded by Miss Corston.

The function was organised by a number of committees of 6th and 7th formers who gave up a lot of spare time in lunch hours and after school to make the ball go.

Accordingly the ball was held on the evening of Wednesday, 18 August, which proved to be fine, although cold, to the great relief of the cooks who had set up supper tables in the clothing rooms some distance from the hall. Under the watchful guidance of the homecraft staff, the supper committee produced a superb spread, beautifully laid out amongst arrangements of Spring flowers.

The hall itself was transformed into a veritable shipyard, effectively draped with ropes, fishnets and colourful lanterns. A ship's mast formed the centrepiece and a number of large, authentic barrels strategically placed around the hall lent a finishing touch to the theme. A lot of imagination went into decorating the foyer which became a ship's cabin complete with porthole, maps, life-lines and even a bed which raised a few eyebrows. Here, guests were greeted by Miss Corston, the head boy and girl and two members of the student council, then outside guests were introduced to Mr and Mrs Clark.

The band was first class and the evening went with a swing while photographer John Lesnie, caught couples in informal situations on the dance floor or perched rather uncomfortably on a barrel for formal poses. An unofficial but willing entertainer, Simon of the well-known duo "Lou and Simon", was well appreciated by the guests while a 7th form band of dubious talent filled in the gap at supper time and provoked some lively comment.

Punch was served in style from a barrel in Room 9 and in the enclosed corridor along the side of the hall, where a group of four impressively attired girls from the cast of the operetta, "Pirates of Penzance" did an excellent job of serving the drink and collecting glasses.

Altogether the evening proved to be a great success and an occasion to be remembered.

Tramping Activities.

AFTERNOONS WITH THE ORCHESTRA

Now that the instrumental tuition scheme has been running for some years we are starting to get a reasonable body of fairly competent players coming through to the school orchestra. This is particularly noticeable in the brass and woodwind sections, where the trumpets and clarinets are developing well. The intake of strings (especially violins) is, however, small so that, until this improves, we can expect only a small output after two or three years. It is to be hoped that more pupils will attempt the violin in the future and that more pupils will have already started learning orchestral instruments before they reach

High School. The instruments available for learning are: Violin (Tutor, Mrs D. Smith), 'cellos (Tutor, Mrs M. Trevethick), clarinets (Tutor, Mr G. Mayson), and brass (Tutor: Mr H. Dixon).

As the pupils who attend these classes pass the learner stage they are eligible to join the School Orchestra which practises on Friday afternoons from 3.15 to 4.00. This year the attendance has been very regular and quite a few more pieces have been tackled. During the year the orchestra has played at assembly and has joined the Night Class Orchestra to play at the Primary Schools' Festival. Some members also joined with the adults who formed the orchestra for "The Pirates of Penzance" while other members, on this occasion, forsook the orchestral pit for the stage. Altogether it has been a useful, informative and satisfying year.

LUNCH-TIME ACTIVITIES

From the earliest days in the history of Rutherford High, the major lunch-time activity appears to be the Rutherford Walkathon. It involves finding one or two companions and circulating in a slow shuffle around the school blocks filling in time between a hurried pie and classroom indigestion that must surely follow.

With the divided lunch-times and an overcrowded hall such activities have had to be curtailed in consideration of those still at work, and during the winter term this year alternative arrangements were made.

The gym was overcrowded for a while; pop music competed with trigonometry or accelerated erosion; crochet work attracted a small group of thirds; the library was in great demand as long as it was wet. To that extent the activities could be considered a success. However, to the bulk of the junior school, the Rutherford Walkathon has not lost its place at the 'top of the pops' as far as lunch-time activities are concerned.

TALENT CONTEST

The day of the Talent Contest and a good crowd has gathered with Mr Laver present as Judge (chief bigot). Backstage all is ready and on comes the beautiful hostess to be greeted with mocks — (Mock being sixth-form word of the year 1971). First in comes two birds who do a bad imitation of Janis Joplin and Julie Felix, singing on "Listen with Mother" with bad hangovers. These two get ten points out of twenty. Then three more birds appear to sing "Words", and they cut out half way through, much to the delight of a raucous crowd. But all is not lost with their nine out of ten because on comes Donald "Where's your trousers" Kerr in tartan hotpants, followed by Donald "Beaver" Cleaver and Greg "Botty Pedrotti" in old English school blazers and dustman trousers. They launch into an imitation of three wowers without a bent penny between them and find themselves well received by the birds in the crowd. Then to the biggest mocking of all, O'Leary and the Boys appear on stage to launch into the biggest load of junk ever produced on an electric guitar. O'Leary in his Mr Pierre wig and crash helmet, with trenchcoat and jeans did a great imitation of a ten year old cow trying to turn cartwheels in a raupo swamp. Vicky Nelson on bass did his best to enthral the crowd with driving riffs which were a full octave and a quarter above the rhythm section played by Brian Finn, the man who rivals John Lennon with his chord changing. He changed chords in a timed ten minutes at one stage during the concert. Finally we hear the "Girls" trundle onto the stage, do a fair imitation of pregnant blue whales doing the twist to a Beethoven record — cause half the crowd to thunder and stomp off the stage to the joy of the crowd.

Finally Mr Laver steps up and announces the organisers of the whole concert the winners — ("Donald where's your trousers") first, the "Girls" second, and what should have been the winners, the O'Leary and the boys band third.

But O'Leary and the boys still claim that Tony, with his coathanger solo would have been worth three extra points — and therefore won the contest — if he hadn't chickened out.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

The boys of the seventh sit waiting in the prefects' room. A young long-haired second-year sixth who will remain un-named, stealthily crept up on a certain sophisticated gentleman wearing a top hat to hold his wig on. Whack! went the umbrella as the sixth pushed the hat and gave the gentleman a mighty crack on the skull. The shade of red that was seen to appear upon both persons' faces shall not be equalled this year even on the face of the Deputy Principal riding the rubbish tractor.

MAORI CULTURE GROUP

The group which was formed only last year has grown in strength. The very recent arrival of some boys to the club has given a more balanced effect to the items.

Earlier in the year the group were guests of the Henderson High School Maori Culture Group where they had the opportunity to perform their newly-learned dances and were in turn entertained by the Henderson Group.

The group also accepted the invitation to an evening at Lynfield College. This proved to be the highlight for the group this year. The performance they gave was of a high standard, but more important than this it was an evening enjoyed by one and all. The group on this occasion was under the supervision of Mr Fris. We hope that in the coming year we will be able to extend an invitation to Lynfield College in return and to all the other groups that attended Lynfield's evening, plus any other schools Maori Culture Groups.

The Group also had the honour of performing on Rutherford Day. Although rather nervous about performing in front of so many important people the group gave an excellent performance. The appreciative comments from the guests afterwards gave a boost to the morale of the Group.

They will perform again for the school on Prize Giving Day. This will be the first performance from the boys since they joined the Group. The boys have rather timidly agreed to perform what we all hope will be some very fierce hakas. Karl Marshall and Eru Earei are very capable leaders of these hakas. Thanks must go to Rota Carrington who tutored the Group.

Tina Waiti has proved a very capable leader of the Group, while Susan Waiti has been outstanding as a tutor. Molly Tawhiti has been a most reliable and valuable worker in the Group, who among other things made all the pois. We lost another valued member in her sister Hine Tawhiti. Hine left school half-way through the year. Neti Tagaloa, the only boy who was in the group for the whole year, was most valuable when we needed a drummer.

It has been a fairly successful year for the Group and I hope it will grow in strength in the years to come.

Special thanks must go to Peter Sharples for the interest and time has put into the Group. Much of the success of the Group is due to his enthusiasm, encouragement and help. Thanks also to Mrs McKenzie who gave up time to teach the Group some hulas.

THE RAIN

The Rain hides the distant mountain like a wall,
 The wind blows the rain against the windows like
 a whip-lash.
 It washes the dust covered blades of grass while the wind rattles the windows in its fury.
 The weary seagulls battle against the wind and rain to shelter.
 The power pylons stand like sentries, gaunt and silent.
 Windscreen wipers move in ever sweeping arcs,
 brushing water aside as a person would a fly.
 The trees bend their branches against the storm
 as if to protect the ground beneath them.
 A forgotten paper boat swirls down the gutter until it slips silently down the whirlpool of a drain.
 No sunlight filters through the murky daylight.
 Raindrops career downwards until their collision with miniature lakes and then they disappear
 in ever widening circles.
 Lights from cars sweep the ground like searchlights swinging backward and forwards.
 Rain, where did it begin, where will it end.
 I wonder

FANTASY

As I rise from my chair,
 I curtsy to the china King and Queen,
 The nodding cat smiles,
 I smile and nod back,
 The shining dog barks in time,
 To the tiny wooden soldier beating his toy drum,
 The eagle begins to fly and soar about the room,
 I quickly duck to dodge his wide-spread wings,
 The Gollywog awakens,
 And he begins to dance,
 He calls all his other friends ,
 To join in with the fun,
 I laugh and begin to twirl around,
 And around upon my feet.
 I stop to look about the room,
 But the King has turned his head.
 The cat no longer smiles
 And the Gollywog has died. ,
 And I alone in this world
 I too am really dead.

THE FINAL GAME OF THE YEAR

I was tense, I grappled for the ball, flung my arms wildly trying now to catch it on the rebound. It slipped and as I sprawled on the black tar, studded with pebbles, a brown blur flashed past my face. I lay moaning and I grasped for my knee. The sickly blood trickled into the minute cracks of my finger. My knee was smeared with red blood. I regained my posture and leaned against the shaking pole. My hand shivered and I flicked the blood onto the dirt. I tried to 'tweezer' my hands and pick out the clump of stones. I felt hot and sweaty and the perspiration trickled softly down my nose.

"C'mon" they called. I hurtled back on to the court, although my leg felt sore and tender. I couldn't let the team down. It was the last game.

"Jennie!" and the ball was slashed into my face. My hands were burning.

"Pat!" she caught it nicely and I straddled down the court.

I swerved and dodged my partner.

My hair flopped untidily around my face. I tightened the rubber band and ribbon.

"Green's ball!" the referee had started the action. The girls floundered for the ball viciously clawing each other. WHISTLE!

We stopped. Someone had walked into goalie's area. "Oh Janet."

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry," she cried.

Everyone was tired — but still trying — the tenseness was killing — the score was 15-14 to them. Half-time. Everyone was in a huddle. We had to beat them. The determination drove us on. A few people had gathered in small groups along the sideline and they cheered and chattered and described Judy's playing or how badly Susan was playing or just gossiped about the weather.

Pat was centre—the sun was in our eyes. Pat slowly jerked her foot to the side.

It was my signal. I heard the thrill piercing, the still air and I rushed into oblivion, my partner strangling me with her arm.

I jerkingly slapped her hand away and leapt for the ball. The cool air surrounded my flushed face. I exploded with energy. My legs ached as I ran. I was afraid. Would the ball make it to goal?

My forehead was furrowed with tiny streams of water. I clenched my hand. Suddenly it was intersected by an opposing player and the ball clambered into the wave of onlookers. I clashed through the players to reach for the ball.

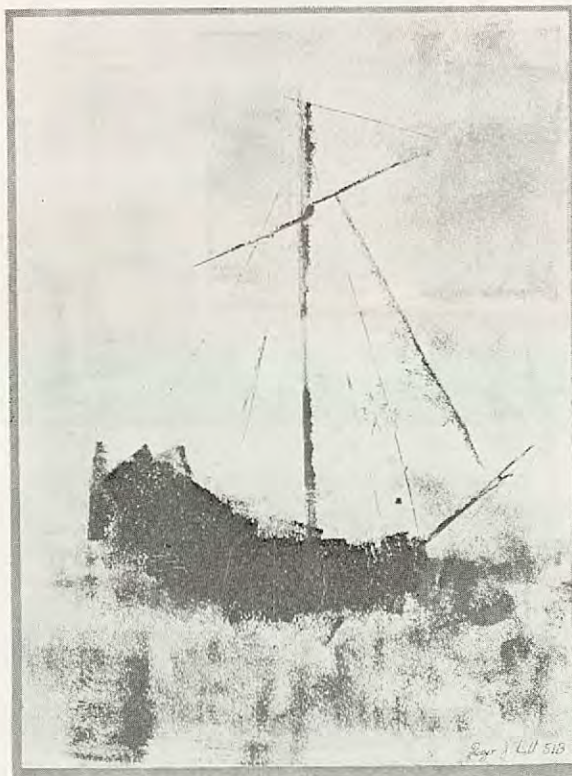

PLAY — and the game was on again. My hair was wet and I flicked it nervously away from my face. My stomach felt empty and as I wasn't fit my chest jogged up and down.

My legs were wobbly. But I thought of all those pounds I was losing. My partner was at the goalie's corner. I turned. The ball was speedily coming for me. I knocked it. It fell into my partner's hands.

My face felt cold now and it slowly turned white as the ball collided with the top of the goal-post then twisted into the bundle of net. The horn went. The score was 16—14. We had lost — the most important game — the FINAL GAME OF THE YEAR.

"THE SCHIZOPHRENIA OF AN OAK TREE"

I see a Mr Hyde,
 Mist swirling about his feet
 A thousand arms waiting,
 A darkness slowly falls;
 He cannot see,
 He cannot hear,
 Nor move,
 Yet all the same he threatens.
 Dark textured skin,
 Defying old age,
 Uneven as that of an adolescent.
 The hours of darkness float by.
 Dawn in its hazy gloom
 He no longer threatens but frightens;

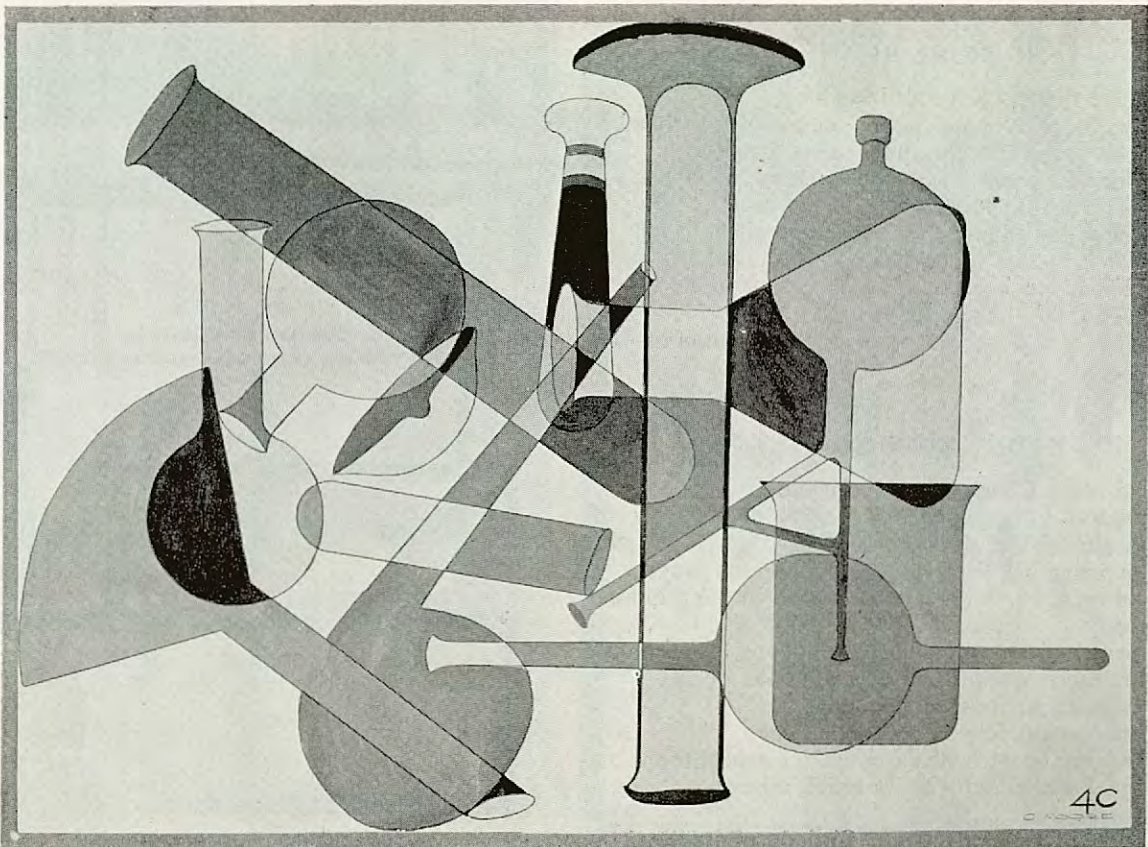

I see a Dr Jekyll
 Encased in emerald green
 Supporting the gentlest of life.
 Upon his many arms.
 Proud as an ageing grandfather.
 As upon his legs children crawl.
 Skin bathing in sunlight.
 Sunset slowly falls.
 I see a Mr Hyde
 Custodian of the Night
 How endless is his life
 How monotonous with but two roles:
 Mother by day,
 Murderer by night.

STORM AT SEA

The mountains of water rise,
 Crashing down onto the rocks,
 Splitting into millions of drips,
 Then it creeps back to the sea,
 Like a lifeless shapeless jelly,
 It screams and whirls madly in infinite circles,
 Sweeping, screaming and whirling,
 It lifts all the small fishing vessels up in its powerful hand of water
 And brings them crashing down on the rocks,
 Like a woman in a fit or rage.
 It torments the ocean bottom,
 And the structure of the land,
 It coaxes the land to join the bottom of the sea,
 And is forever changing the shape of the land,
 Bringing down fossils and hidden treasures,
 To be buried on the bottom of the sea,
 Selfishly,
 So they can never be found.
 Greedily, she hoards these treasures,
 To share with no-one.

NO MORE RUNNY NOSES

The flowers were all blooming,
 while the clouds were mooning overhead,
 All runny noses have now stopped,
 like a water faucet run dry.
 There isn't time for TV anymore,
 only for planting crops and fruit.
 The doctors have packed up and left town,
 Everyone is well and can now run about.
 All colds have disappeared.

DEDICATION TO VIET-NAM

Old man, I saw your village die—
 Today—
 I watched the silver bomb fall through the sky.
 Menacing all that would stand in its way.
 Old man, I saw your village razed to the ground—
 Today—
 I watched from afar, from the top of a mound,
 But there was nothing I could do or say.
 I wanted to look elsewhere,
 But I couldn't tear my eyes away.
 And my heart ached for what I saw there
 And I was filled with so much misery—
 Today.

IT

Such was the night that it came,
 The wind moaned and howled
 Bringing its message with it.
 The neon flashes crackled and fired,
 Bringing the voice of it down to my ears.
 And yet, as it grew darker
 It cried no more, but whimpered
 As though 'twas my fault
 That 'twas left out.
 And when the glare showed itself
 It glided in and lay curled
 Before the hearth.

SHALOM

When all the children, are tucked away,
 And the sun, has gone
 The wind shuffles on down the lane
 Its footsteps coated in red.

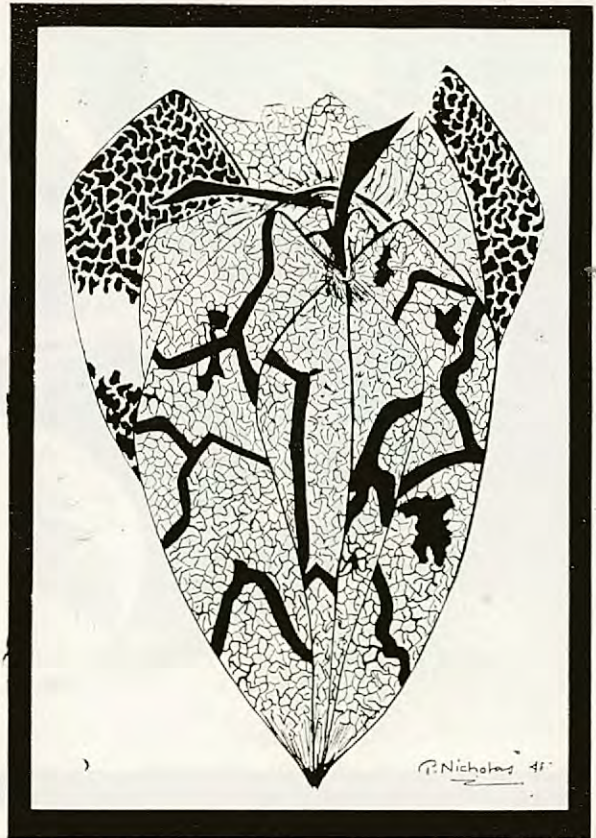

The Storm whispers
 "Peace."

Someone walks over a past life
 Somewhere a widow cries
 Somewhere a father lies
 And a soldier, lying, dying cries
 "Peace."

The Sun changes to black
 And shines down on my face
 The lands float into the sea
 Because the night is forever
 And the dying people scream out
 "Peace."

Will this world ever know the meaning?
 With all his wisdom, his old age, and Broken heart, the Great man answers
 "No."

LONELINESS

Standing by a gate, gazing down a road which leads to nowhere.
Does anybody care?
Expressionless eyes glance back to the door, nobody's there.
Behind the drawn curtain of reality,
there is the world of fantasy, who
but a few, live behind this curtain,
groping for a meaning in life,
or, descend into the grips of
the fantasy world.
Maybe, never to be released from it.
Does anybody care?

CHEMISTRY HUMOUR

Substance: Woman.
Symbol: Wo.
Atomic Weight: 120 pounds.

Occurrence: Found wherever man is found, seldom in free state.

Physical Properties: Generally rounded in form. Boils at nothing and may freeze at any minute. Melts when treated properly. Very bitter if not used well.

Chemical Properties: Very active. Possesses great affinity to gold, diamond, silver, platinum and precious stones. Violent reaction when left alone. Able to absorb great amount of food. Turns green when placed beside a better looking specimen. Ages rapidly without application of cosmetics and ointments.

Uses: Highly ornamental. Useful as a tonic in accelerating of low spirits. Equalises the distribution of wealth. Is probably the most powerful income-reducing agent known.

Caution: Highly explosive when in inexperienced hands.

If half a day's heat
equal to a lung full of purity
Is half a day's worth of

LOVE

The wonderment of such compassion engulfs me;
How could one such as this be so freely loving
To one so unworthy as me, once so selfish
And cold to such love.

Yet this one who loves me sets me so at ease
That I can do nothing but return that love of mine;

Small and immeasurable it is, and pitiful,
But it is true and lasting.

Sometimes it may flicker and hesitate, but always,
Always it will go on,

Rising high to fill expectations,
Burning inside and shining out
To others less fortunate than I.

And when the time comes and my love is still fresh

I will meet the one who loves me,
And I will be with Him at last.

THE OUTCAST

There he stands,
 Rebellion in himself,
 He has been disgraced from Society.
 Scraggy clothes, long hair and a matted beard.
 No sense of discipline,
 Or is that the true meaning of freedom?
 He cares for no-one,
 He lives for today,
 But could die tomorrow!
 He is not prejudiced,
 All men are equal in his mind,
 Everyone should walk hand in hand,
 Regardless of race, colour, or religion.
 He lives his own life,
 Why shouldn't he?
 He has no laws to obey,
 He is an independent.
 Life is the gift of God,
 Why shouldn't he enjoy his own life?
 What right have they to say he's living wrong?
 Perhaps it's the other way round.

Maybe we should change,
 Now!

STONE HENGE

An eerie feeling of antiquity filled my body, as quietly, in the evening light, I stepped around and examined the ancient stones. Running my fingers where thousands of years before so too had some other hand, a link with ages past.

In wonderment my mind contemplated how these stones had endured the things that had passed and as if in a trance my mind was tossed into deep thought and all at once the scene came alive.

The ancient rituals, the religious ceremonies danced before my eyes. The beat, beat of drums pounded in my ears and a chanting which suddenly I understood filled my mind.

The faint stony body of a human sacrifice lay in the centre and figures were dancing, swaying, reeling in the torchlight and then the blood; blood of shiny steel, the cries and then death! Over and over again.

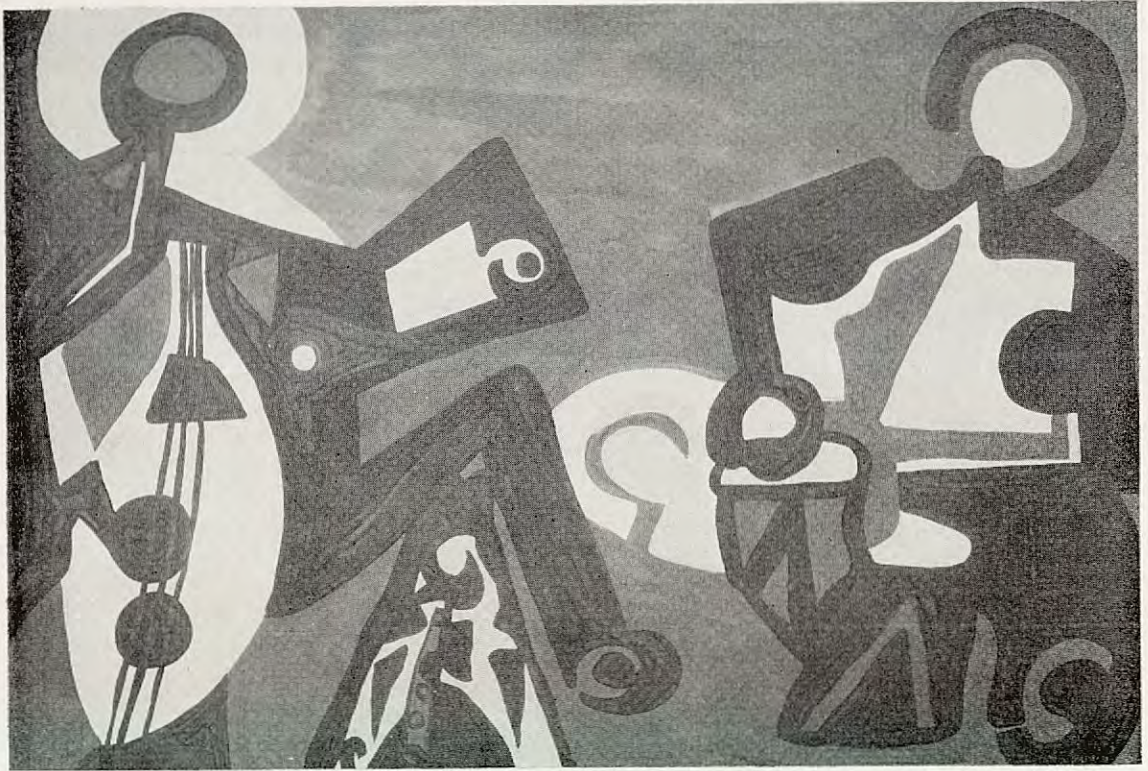

Like a thread breaking a gently swaying wind drew me out of my entrancement; just as quickly blowing away the figures, the torchlight. Nothing remained but my hand resting on the stone. Quickly, I removed it, hoping, knowing, in some way it would break the uncanny linkage with the past.

And yet . . . walking away the beating of the drums, the chanting, still played softly, wistfully, as if faraway in my ears, somehow calling me back. Quickly I caught my breath. It's only the wind, only the wind, I told myself but still not daring to glance behind.

ATHLETICS 1971

This year was notable for the outstanding performances of, in particular, Diane Hollingsworth, Carol Stainton, Rota and Arihia Carrington, Ralph Lucas and Carlyne Dewes. However, there were outstanding team efforts too — the Junior Girls and Junior Boys at Mt Smart and a number of boys teams at the Inter-Secondary Relays.

Eleven records were clearly broken at our own School Sports and at least ten of the "Best Times" set were of record quality. At the Zone meeting a slightly depleted boys' team performed very strongly to come second overall. Points were not kept at the Relays but our boys did very well. At Mt Smart both our boys and our girls were to the fore most of the day with five of them becoming Auckland reps. At the North Island Championships Rota was unable to compete but three became North Island Champions and the other was placed.

This year the weather was kind and there was keen participation in virtually all events. The record-breaking runs of the stars were spectacular but there were exciting tussles also — particularly in the Intermediate Boys' Sprints and the Senior Boys' Distance races.

The above list shows how Rota broke four records: (10m. 11.2 sec; 200m. 23.5 sec; 400m. 53.5 sec, and Long Jump 20ft 0in), but Paul Connolly could have beaten him for the Senior Championship with more care (or tact) in his selection of entries (only 5 allowed). Bret Sutherland and Chris Lawrence were placed in four events.

The Intermediate Championship was a grand tussle between John Nesbitt and John Smith in the same events mostly, and David Moore and David Rickit in record-breaking form in other events. Brasey Dinon and Wayne Fraser were "there" also.

Ralph Lucas stood out amongst the Juniors but Grant Richit, Mark O'Keefe and Glen Creamer showed much promise.

Carol Stainton was so far ahead of the field in every race that records were obviously on, but actually she broke them by huge margins and in the long jump added 1ft 7in to a record which was already a foot beyond that of the previous year. Raewyn Wylie was second in four events and Yvonne Woods close to the record in the shot.

Lynette Hill just managed to head off Linda Hayhurst in the Intermediate section and Betty Tupou showed promise in the shot put.

The most spectacular runs of the sports were by Diane Hollingsworth and the records quite astonishing. She became North Island Champion in High and Long Jumps but at our school sports ran the 200m. 0.3 sec. — faster than the North Island time. Carlyne Dewes and Arihia Carrington took the other Junior School Championship places.

Other pleasing features of the school sports were the large amount of work done by the pupil officials, the interest in the graded form events and the tremendous interest in the class relays. 3C's time was amazingly good.

WESTERN ZONE — BOYS

Rota Carrington and Ralph Lucas were the outstanding performers followed by Mark O'Keefe and Chris Lawrence. Creamer, Douglas, Nesbitt, Hay, Brassey, Moore, Connolly, Kelenc, Davies and Tong earned the right to compete at Mt. Smart, and almost everyone else in the team earned points. The totals were: Seniors 39, Intermediates 34, Juniors 62 — Overall 135 — Second Place.

Relays — Tuesday, 30th March

In contrast to scratching together 22 unwilling relay teams in the third term when many are in the middle of final school exams, the change to a first term twilight meeting was most welcome. (A few schools held another meeting in October as usual.)

The standard was very high, e.g. King's Senior 4 x 800 m. team averaged 2 min 3 sec, and the A.G.S. Intermediate 4 x 100 m. team, 11.4 sec. Our small group had to compete three or four times each but in their divisions gained six thirds, two seconds, and a first.

The Junior Medley team led off by an exceptionally good 400m. by Mark O'Keefe followed by a slashing 200 by Ralph Lucas and an excellent 100 by Glen Creamer, and Curtis Tong made "no race of it" (the announcer's words).

Mt Smart

Mention has been made of the boys who competed. Of them O'Keefe (400m. & 800m.), Nesbitt (100m.), and Creamer (100m.), ran in finals and Kelenc threw well in the discus. Rota Carrington split a whole field of champions in the Senior 100 and pushed Mountford to another N.Z. Junior Men's Record performance. Unfortunately, he pulled a muscle and could not compete in the North Island Championships. Ralph Lucas won the Junior Long Jump (17ft 10in.), the Junior 100m. and was second by a shade in the 200m. final. The Junior 4 x 100 Relay team was fourth in a blanket finish.

The girls had an excellent day with the Juniors coming second and the three teams, fourth overall.

Arihia Carrington came second in the Junior Shot 32ft), and Carlyne Dewes a very good second in the Junior 50m. The stars were, of course, Carol Stainton who won the Long Jump (17ft 4in), and came second in the 100m., and Diane Hollingsworth, first in the Long Jump (16ft 8in), and High Jump (4ft 8in). Diane also helped the Junior 4 x 100m. relay team to a new record in their heat (53.1 sec), a second by inches to an even better record (52.6 sec), by E.G.G.S. in the final.

NORTH ISLAND CHAMPIONSHIPS
HAMILTON — EASTER SATURDAY

Diane Hollingsworth became a double North Island Champion with a 4ft 9in high jump and a 16ft 6½in long jump into a head wind. Carol Stainton became the Senior Long Jump Champion and came second in the 100m. Ralph Lucas came third in the 100m. and 3rd equal in distance in the long jump, but won his championship by giving Auckland a winning lead in the Junior Boys' Relay. Arihia Carrington performed creditably in the shot put but when unexpectedly invited to throw the discus came 3rd.

The meeting was a great success.

ROAD RACE

This was held in the week leading into mid-term break over the usual course except that all races started and finished on the bottom field. After allowing for this the following performances were better than previous years — those of Lorraine Stillman, Ian Smith, Peter Dixon, while Geoffery Shaw and Diane Hollingsworth ran times comparable with the best previously.

Third and fourth form girls and Junior Boys entered in large numbers but participation by the Senior School was most disappointing.

Points for the form competition were given on both placing and times. The results were:

6th & 7th	5th	4th	3rd
6J 74	5D 108	4H 180	3D 158
6E 60	5H 103	4J 86	3B 132
6A 40	5B 63	4A 82	3G 93
6H 34	5A 37	4B 81	3J 91

7. Stuart Wild 5A, 23 min 17 sec.
8. Graham Hammond 5B, 23 min 18 sec.

STEEPLECHASE

Conditions were very wet in the first week back. Juniors and Intermediates ran on the school course — 3¼ laps or 2.6ml, and 4¼ laps or 3.3 ml. respectively but the Seniors organised themselves a farm run of about 5 miles. Participation was disappointing.

RESULTS:

Senior:

Paul Connolly 1, Bruce Scott 2, Ian Hay 3.

Intermediate:

Peter Dixon 1, Ian Smith 2, Michael Stillman 3.

Junior:

Stephen Walker 1, Grant Rich 2, Geoffrey Shaw 3.

INTERMEDIATE STEEPLECHASE

St Kentigern's:

After school runs against Kelston and Henderson and over the St. Kentigern course preceded the big event but not enough boys trained really hard. The juniors got quite a shock when they found how fast the other A grade school reps ran — all 90 of them. Victor Shaw, after falling at the start, worked his way up to 36th and was our first home.

Then came the thrills — Peter Dixon at the front of the Intermediates with Ian Smith not far behind. They came in second and ninth. Gary Leask was 16th and Mark Cleaver 28th, making the team 3rd overall — a very fine effort.

More thrills, as Ian Hay, though trailing Wright (the eventual winner) was well out in front of the rest. David Craig (15th) and Paul Connolly (16), did very well, but with one of the team in hospital and another sick, Ino Kelderman filled in at the last moment and though he ran a respectable 49th to give the team 5th placing, for which we are most grateful, a regular member could well have been in the first 35th to give us the 2nd placing, the first three's effort deserved. Perhaps next year's 7th Form will produce a top-line team. This could well be, but they might allow 6ths such as Peter Dixon and Ian Smith to back them up!

SWIMMING SPORTS RESULTS

The sports were held on Wednesday, 17th and Friday, 19th of February with sections of the school watching at all times.

This year was our biggest carnival ever held with about one-third of the school actually competing in the championship or non-championship events. No pupil was permitted to enter both sections and this led to good entries in the non-championship events.

We hope these will be continued in future.

Champions:Senior:

- Boys: P. Tunnage 21 points
 Girls: Stella Dallison 11 points.

Intermediate:

INTER-SECONDARY SCHOOL SWIMMING

Girls' Meeting, 4th March, 1971.
Olympic Pool.

The girls' team swam in the B grade and Lorraine Stillman by gaining a 2nd in the Freestyle and a 1st in the Breaststroke, managed to bring the school into 6th place overall out of 16 schools.

We seem to have a long way to go to get up amongst the top schools here, but congratulations to Lorraine and all the other girls who represented the school so creditably.

Swimming is a hard sport.

Boys' Meeting, 6th March, 1971
Olympic Pool.

B Grade: The meeting was most exciting all afternoon as the team was represented in every final. This meant that we had a R.H.S. swimmer in every race held in the afternoon. We were placed 3rd overall only $2\frac{1}{2}$ points behind Henderson.

Outstanding Junior performers were F. Lawton, 2 wins; W. Booth, 2 thirds; one of these being in the Open Butterfly event, a most creditable performance for a junior, and the relay team who finished 2nd very close behind H.H.S.

Intermediate results showed wins to G. Elliot and G. Hammond who unfortunately missed his other final which he was almost sure of winning on his heat time. Again the relay team was 2nd to H.H.S.

Senior results gave P. Tunnage a 2nd and R. Scott a 3rd placing with the relay team finishing 3rd.

With the strength shown by the Juniors and Intermediates, we could be a force to be reckoned with next year.

Congratulations to all who took part.

David Rudolf, 4F

RUGBY

1971 season saw nine teams entered — an increase of three over the previous season. Three teams played in the "A" sections, and managed to hold their own against strong opposition, winning a few games and losing others by narrow margins. The benefits of this harder competition should show next year. The 1st XV had a very successful season, going through without a loss to win the Senior B competition. David Cheeseman, Barry Riley and Rota Carrington were selected for the Auckland Secondary Schools' Representatives teams, and performed well in the August Tournament. Two 7-a-side teams were entered in the Waitemata Rugby Football Club's competition, with the "A" team winning and the "B" team showing strength if not pace. The 5th Grade team in the "C" section won the Auckland Championship final — a fine effort considering problems of numbers early in the season.

Congratulations to Ken Carrington — our first All Black from Rutherford. We look forward to seeing Ken's name in the touring team for 1972, and wish him a speedy recovery to his leg injury.

A number of boys played for various clubs in the afternoons, and some gained representative honours. To these our congratulations, and we hope they continue to progress through the grades and eventually gain higher honours.

This year a number of fathers managed teams on Saturdays. Messrs Brimble (4C), Hammond (5A), Good (5C) and Blundell (6B) looked after teams, and both players and coaches appreciate the time and efforts put in to make the season a successful one.

L. Milne (Coach).

1971 was the most successful season ever, with the team winning the "B" Grade Championship after a very tight competition with the result in doubt until the final whistle of the last game. We were fortunate to go through the season with the minimum of injuries, and we were able to work up a formidable combination. The forwards knitted together well, and although at times not dominating the opposing packs, managed to get sufficient good ball for the backs to use to good effect.

With Rota on the sideline for a number of games, Barry captained the team, and did a good job. The final game against Selwyn was extremely close, with neither side giving an inch. Thanks to the many supporters who came that day, and particularly to the Cheer Party for their help.

during the season. Messrs T. Riley and C. Marshall helped with sound advice and coaching assistance, as well as transport and looking after game functions and did a tremendous job. To all these, and our regular supporters, we offer our thanks and hope to see them against next season.

The regular games against Papakura and Old Pupils were played at school, and both provided thrills. We hosted Homebush High School from Sydney during the May vacation, and narrowly defeated them in a hard-fought game. In the inaugural 7-a-side tournament of the Waitemata Club, our A team were undefeated, and the B team played soundly.

The Players

Rota Carrington (Capt.) — Two tremendous tries — both winners against Homebush and Rangitoto.

David Cheeseman (Vice Capt.) — Led the forwards well by voice and action.

Ian Adamson — Injured early on, but recovered to full strength.

Steve Marshall — Got many tight heads but lacked speed in the loose.

Terry Ehau — Effective on the field and once very much so as linesman.

David Young — The fastest "injured" player on the field.

Eddie Molijn — Always on the ball.

Greg Pedrotti — Stirred up the opposition backs.

Paul Connolly — Excellent on cover defence and attack.

Barry Riley — Won many games with his accurate boot. Did a "Williams" on Aorere. Top scorer with 74 points.

Brett Sutherland — Ran with determination.

Ian Hay — Good individual tries against Henderson and St Peters.

Gary McMeekin — A good 1st five-eighth and a fine attacking fullback.

2nd XV

Coach: Mr McCracken.

The second fifteen had a most successful season. Our wins were not many but the spirit and sportsmanship shown were excellent.

Out of the nine games played we gained three wins and two games drawn. Our record would have been greatly improved had we fielded a full team on each occasion. Our play during the first half of each game showed skill and determination. During the second half, lack of fitness and evidence of an active social life usually resulted in a loss.

Perhaps our most enjoyable game was against Mt. Albert when we were able to field four players from the 1st XI Soccer team. Our fine display of cut and thrust combined with mob attack resulted in a magnificent and well applauded total of 11 points.

Our thanks go to our coach, Mr McCracken, and the captain, Kevin Lidgard, for their obvious effort and perseverance with such a social team.

THIRD GRADE A

This team started the season in the A section but found the going here rather tough. In the first game the players gave promise of better things to come but never really developed a core of light forwards capable of winning consistent ball for the backs. T. Manoah was outstanding in the forwards always leading by example, while M. Wong and D. Pepper gave consistently good performances. The backs looked good when running with the ball but many promising moves broke down through the ball carrier running out of support. R. Purdy was always safe at full-back, while G. Svenson won promotion to the 1st XV. Our thanks to players who helped out when the team was short.

3rd Grade C:

Record: Won 3; drew 2; lost 5.

Players: B. Tuaeivi (Capt.), J. Davis, M. Geldard, T. Tuaeivi, M. McKeown, J. Nesbitt, R. Cave, M. Thompson, P. Dixon, P. Rauner, T. Kivell, S. Griffiths, R. Stewart, M. King, R. Hill, L. Cole, M. Mercer, R. Samuels.

Coach: Mr R. Hodge.

At times this team played very well. Many games were closely fought, but lack of condition prevented success.

Training was a formality and not a real feature of the "Social Approach" of the players.

The thanks of the team are due to enthusiastic parents who provided encouragement and transport.

4th Grade A

This season the players showed that they were talented enough to play hard, fast Rugby in the "A" Grade. Unfortunately, it took a while for the forwards and backs to develop into fifteen team members but by halfway through the season they were working as a closely knit unit and were able to beat Mt. Albert Grammar, the game leaders, in a closely fought battle.

One or two players deserve special mention. Peter Webster for his lively forward play, John Robertson for his goal kicking and attacking play at second five-eighth and Greg Long who as full-back was always dependable and who often turned defence into attack by his darting runs.

Our thanks to Mr Evans and Mr Douglass as coaches, and to those parents who supplied transport and support throughout the season.

Played 9; won 6; lost 3.

4th Grade C

The 1971 season was not a successful one for the 4C team as far as records are concerned. Most games were played with a view to enjoyment rather than the production of good Rugby, and rarely did the players perform as a team. The lack of team unity was partly because of a lack of players and partly the result of members not taking training seriously.

Our thanks to Mr Brimble who managed the team on Saturdays and to the parents who provided transport.

Played 10; won 4; lost 6.

Team: C. Martin (Capt.), B. Fletcher, K. Wright, M. Brimble, D. Oemcke, C. Dormer, C. McCall, M. Wilson, M. Keir, B. Annan, S. Scott, H. Roscoe, K. Lawton, R. Nea, P. Metcalfe, D. Harrison, G. Miller.

5th Grade

Both teams despite some poor attendances at practice had a successful season. The 5A's playing in the top section finished in fourth place. Unfortunately this team relied too much on individual performance and lacked real team work. It was capable of very good Rugby but lacked practice playing as a team, so their record suffered.

The 5C's, which developed a strong team spirit as the season progressed won their section, after a series of close games, then in the Auckland final defeated Edgewater College thus forming the Auckland Secondary School champions for this grade. A well deserved prize for a team which tried hard in all of their games.

Both teams wish to thank the three coaches and the numerous parents who provided transport and vocal support throughout the season.

Team Members:

5A: O. Davies, V. Godinet, P. Saverby, D. Ward, G. Hammond, W. Ngata (Capt.), G. Stevens, B. Heron, D. Lidgard, G. Wilson, S. Smith, S. Wild, D. Snow, J. Herkt, P. McCullough.

5C: R. Newton, G. Tolliday, R. Nairn, A. Green, D. Lysaght, T. Duncan, M. Scown, D. Manu, M. Cowie, M. Good, R. Hick, B. Stringer, D. Baker, S. Bishara, J. Robertson.

6th Grade B

Games Played:

St Peters Maori Boys, lost 6—3 and 12—3; Massey High School, won 20—0 and 8—3; Rosmini College, won 13—0 and 17—8; Takapuna Grammar, lost 11—3 and 9—0; Kelston High School, won 15—0 and Penrose High School, drew 3—3.

Points for 85; against 52.

The team played well all season and played as a team. We had some hard competition from Takapuna Grammar and St Peters Maori Boys. The backs played well and ran in 22 tries, Mountain 6 and Shepherd 4. Selwyn Heteraka played well both in backs and forwards. The forward pack came right after a few games and with skilful hooking from Ross Bennet, gave the backs a good run. Romana Ngata, the captain of the forwards, kept them working hard and led them to many a try-scoring spree. Other good forwards were Robert Munro and Gary Jensen.

Our thanks go to Mr Aitken who gave up valuable time after school to turn us into a team, to Mr Blundell who helped us out and other parents who gave us transport.

SOCCER

The 1st XI experienced a fairly successful season in the Senior B. competition, although the final placings would not seem to indicate this.

After the first three weeks, we were bottom of the table, with no points; the team then found its form, and by the end of the first round we were second, points behind Lynfield, but with a game in hand. During the second round we were beset with bad luck, two key players leaving and another being injured. We eventually finished fourth equal with St Kentigern College.

The team played well together, with talent be-

Our thanks go to coach Mr Harold, for his time and efforts, with special thanks to Mr Laver and Mr Bendall, who each helped on separate occasions, and to Mr Ephraim and Chris Ross, who between them refereed our home games.

Intermediate Team

The Intermediate XI enjoyed a fairly successful season, finally finishing third in the competition, scoring 21 goals and exceeding 15, in winning five, drawing one and losing three games.

Highlight of the season was our 2-nil win over Co-leaders Kelston—the final game of the season.

The team thanks go to Mr Needham for his coaching, managing of the team. Thanks also to Mr Ephraim who refereed many of our games and also all the supporters who followed the team in all weathers.

Junior A

Although the team had the potential to win games, it lacked the drive and teamwork to make a winning combination. The final tally of one win and one draw only, is not a true indication of the general play, as many of the games were closely contested.

The team is to be congratulated on the excellent attendance of players at practice sessions, and their display of sportsmanship shown throughout the season.

Our thanks to Mr Martin and Mr Bendall for their coaching and help.

NETBALL

OPEN GRADE

Our open grade netball team had a very successful season, due to the expert coaching of an outside coach — Mrs Lonnergan, and the enthusiasm and good sportsmanship shown by the team.

Out of the ten matches played, eight were won and two lost. Other games were arranged to play outside teams, but it is better that these results aren't mentioned.

Team: Dianna Quick, Pam Hart, Judy McKenzie (Capt.), Carol Stainton (Vice Capt.), Diane Stewart, Lynette Knowles, Diane Jelas, Diane Selak (reserve).

Senior A

As far as sport has been concerned this year, Netball has been quite promising and the Senior A team came out about even in their wins and losses. Throughout the year the team launched into each game enthusiastically and played to their best ability, supported on the side-lines by other netball teams from Rutherford.

Also thanks to the time put in by Mrs Lonergan (the open-grade and senior A teams coach), the teams were well prepared for each game. Attendance was generally up to scratch, however, on the odd occasion there was a bit of improvisation, but on the whole 1971 has been a good year for netball.

Team: Evelyn Cowan, G.D. (Capt.), Pam Mullins C., Wendy Miller G.S., Blossom Kikiwhiri G.A., Margaret Veryt G.K., Donna Pittman W.A., Kay Borich W.D.

Senior B

Our team did not have a very successful year. Through regular attendance at practice and tremendous team spirit we improved greatly. Our thanks to our coaches for the time they gave us.

Team: Janice Blackmore G.D. (Capt.), Kathleen Halley G.S., Frances Rudd C., Veronica Jury G.A., Denise Worrell W.A., Noeline Hall W.D., Julie Smith G.K.

Intermediate A

Intermediate A netball team for the 1971 season consisted of: Gael White C. (Capt.), Carol Waddell G.A., Sandra Fitesemanu G.S., Jackie Clarke W.A., Molly Tawhiti W.D., Jennifer Blackmore G.D., Christine Worsley G.K.

The team had a successful season and thoroughly enjoyed participating in school sport. We hope future pupils at R.H.S. will follow our example by representing their school in Netball. Our thanks also go to our coach, Miss Irving.

Intermediate B

Although this team was not very successful, the team spirit was there. It was a very trying season and we owe our thanks to Miss Irving for the time she spent coaching us.

Junior A

Rutherford Junior A had a successful netball season, winning nine of the games they played. This was the result of Miss Irving's good coaching as well as good team play among the girls. Vivienne Wieldraaijer proved to be an efficient captain and ensured all the players attended practice. The team improved towards the end of the season, especially when they showed up over the undefeated Queen Victoria in a very exciting match.

The team was: Vivienne Wieldraaijer (Capt.), Helen Faesen, Margaret Johnson, Jennifer Wong, Janine Lynden, Lynda Selak, Lynn Van Pelt.

Junior B

Rutherford Junior B netball team did not have a very successful season, winning only 3 games out of ten. We are grateful to our coaches who willingly gave of their own time to assist us, even if our results were not very heartening to them. Our team spirit was keen, reflected in regular attendance at practice and Saturday games. My thanks to the team members for their co-operation. Better luck next year.

Team were: Kerry Smith (Capt.), Ann Hammond, Tui Rameka, Denise Terlesk, Sharon Smith, Isobella Lundon, Marie Milina, Kerry Hamlet.

HOCKEY

GIRLS' HOCKEY

The Boys' Hockey team had a very successful year, being placed about 2nd equal in the competitions. We were very lucky to have a very versatile team, for they could turn defence into attack very quickly. This year's team was captained by Bryan Paris, with the forwards being M. Henderson, M. Cattin, A. Bryant, R. Mathews, S. Blyth, D. Wadham. The backs were M. Pringle, B. Paris, R. Holdaway, R. Childs, D. Game, D. Stevenson, and goalie R. Philips.

For the record we played 10 games. We won 6; lost 3; and drew 1. The hardest games were undoubtedly against Mt. Albert and A.G.S.

v. Massey, won 2—0; v. Dilworth, lost 0—1; v. Mt. Albert, draw 1—1; v. A.G.S., lost 0—4; v. Tamaki, won 2—0; v. Mt. Albert, lost 0—1; v. Massey, won 3—0; v. Massey, won 2—1; v. Tamaki, won by default; v. Dilworth, won 1—0.

Team Members: Lynda Piercy, Janet McKenzie, Karen Muller, Sheryl Royal (Capt.), Donna Bassett, Cathy Wilson, Marie Manifold, Diane King, Yvonne Webb, Pat Mills, and Simone Bagby.

The team played well throughout the season, and finished the competition with six wins and five losses. On paper these are only fair results. In reality the team played with determination and spirit but with occasional lapses which cost them valuable points in the competition.

Several players stood out during the season. Sheryl Royal, Donna Bassett, Pat Mills, and Marie Manifold were selected for Auckland Secondary School Girls' trials, and our congratulations go to Marie Manifold who was selected to play in the B team. A very creditable performance when the players of 160 secondary teams are taken into consideration. Other players to show notable improvement throughout the season were Yvonne Webb, Simone Bagby and Janet McKenzie. With continued effort these young players have a good hockey future. Sheryl Royal was once again the most prolific goal scorer, and proved a very able captain.

Nineteen seventy-two should prove an interesting one for the team. While some of the most valued members are leaving school, it is obvious from watching the junior players that there are promising players emerging.

Junior Girls' Hockey Team

The players in this team were: Susan Piggott (Capt.), Senni Kelderman (Vice Capt.), Heather Lyall, Vicki Spear, Jillian Burnett, Lesley Hay, Nina Pedrotti, Maree Taylor, Andrea Lovelock, Claire Knight, Jean Davison, Ngaire Bassett, Linda Stent.

This team consisted mainly of third form players with three fourth formers to fill the ranks. It became apparent right from the very first game that this plucky little team had the drive and team spirit which gave them a noticeable advantage over their opponents. However, the team had its share of losses in both games and players — Linda Stent a capable centre forward withdrew from the team due to injury and Lesley Hay took her place.

All players could well be mentioned for their excellent play throughout the season but Susan Piggott, Jillian Burnett, Heather Lyall and Maree

Taylor gave some outstanding performances.

This junior team will undoubtedly prove to be a most valuable asset to the 1st and 2nd XI next year.

2nd Girls' Hockey Team

This was a very mixed team, having both experienced players and rank beginners. The players were drawn from the 4th form to the 7th.

This odd mixture worked very well indeed—the comradeship between the players was good and it was obvious that these girls enjoyed their hockey.

Gail Donald proved a very reliable captain while Sharon Kirkley (Vice Capt.), spurred the team on when on field. Mr Kirkley was always on hand also with both praise and abuse from the sideline. This always added flavour to the game.

Dolores Sanchez was a very reliable goalie and saved the day for the team on many occasions. Gayle Elmbranch and Rolinka Kooiman were the mainstay of the team and played reliably and well all season. However, Susan Howard, a beginner, proved to be the most outstanding player for the team.

Team members: Gail Donald (Capt.), Sharon Kirkley (Vice Capt.), Fay O'Connell, Annette Kivell, Karen Kivell, Susan Howard, Gayle Elmbranch, Leonie Carr, Helen Rhodes, Rolinka Kooiman, Dolores Sanchez, Alexis Newcombe, Carol Bradbury, Mandy Metcalf.

The team won two-thirds of their games.

GYMNASTICS

Every Wednesday night after school for about 1½ hours the gym club met. Practices were held for the Auckland Secondary Schools Girls' Championships which were held on the 13th August at the Mount Albert Recreation Centre.

This year we entered two teams, one in each of the A and B Grades. Although not placed, the teams both performed with credit. We were unfortunate not to have had Debbie Riley with us in the championships but she was doing her best for New Zealand at the Australian Championships. Dorothy James also, unfortunately, injured her ankle at the last moment and under severe pain continued to perform for the "B" Grade team.

The teams were:

"A" — Barbara Cisowski, Caroline Apanui, Lynda Barry, Patricia Mills.

"B" — Robyn White, Frances Rudd, Marion Hay, Dorothy James.

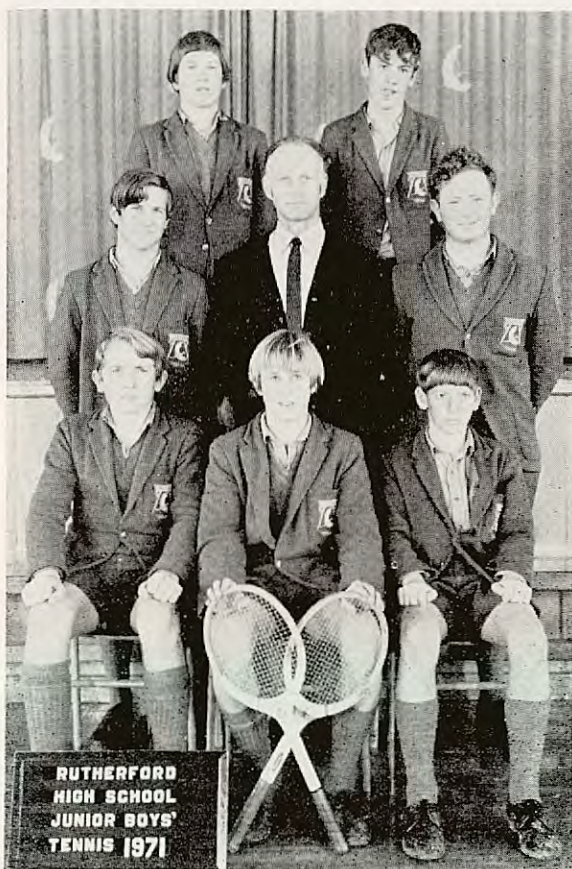

N.Z. Gymnastic Representative Writes:

During the August holidays I went to Australia with a New Zealand gymnastic team to compete in the Australian Gymnastic Championships. While we were over there we gained a lot of valuable experience and we all had a very enjoyable time. Overall in the competition our team gained two seconds and a fifth place. The competitions were held in the Caledonian Stadium in Melbourne.

I would also like to thank the school for the case I was presented with as it was very useful on the trip.

Debbie Riley.

TENNIS

JUNIOR BOYS TENNIS

Back Row: G. Rickit, D. Draper.

Middle Row: D. Simpson, J. Green, B. Davies.

Absent: V. Shaw.

The senior tennis team had a very good season although many games were cancelled because of bad weather. They played five competitive games against such strong opposition as, Baradene College, Queen Victoria, Papatoetoe and St. Mary's. Of these five the team won three and lost two—all games being played in good team spirit, with grim determination producing some excellent, tough matches. The members of the team are:

Judy McKenzie, Sheryl Royal, Dianne Burnett, Carol Munro, Cushla Simpson, Ciny Kater, Pam Hart.

Because they played so well with such team spirit the senior team won its colours this year—undoubtedly a major achievement for a whole team to win its awards. This was the highlight to the season and the girls well deserved it.

This season was not a very successful one for our team, because of bad weather, unfortunate unavailability of players and frequent changes in the team. However most of the girls enjoyed the games, which were played in a very good spirit. We would like to thank our coach, Miss Boyd-Wilson, for encouragement and interest in our team.

Team: Jillian Burnett, Helen Donald, Heather Lyall, Linda Stent.

JUNIOR BOYS

The Junior team did quite well this season by winning all matches except one and that was due to a shortage of players. Our opposing schools in the competition were Kelston High, Henderson High, Mount Roskill Grammar, and Mount Albert Grammar. Our thanks to our coach, Mr Green who, by giving up his own time, helped to make our wins possible.

The team was: V. Shaw (Capt.), D. Draper, D. Simpson, G. Rickitt, J. Allan, B. Blundell, R. Williams, B. Davies.

Owen Davies, 4D

Intermediate Girls

Janet McKenzie, Sharon Kirkley, Carol Waddell, Karen Muller, Pat Dunn, Anne Sharp, Noeline Hall.

Throughout the season this team of tennis enthusiasts played many excellent games of tennis. Special credit must be given to the outstanding performances of these three players: Carol Waddell, Janet McKenzie and Sharon Kirkley.

It seems unfortunate that next year a Rutherford tennis team will not exist for the girls appeared to enjoy their Saturday morning inter-school matches — but this is one of the prices that must be paid by a large school trying to compete with the dominating influence of outside clubs.

GIRLS' TENNIS

Back Row: Carol Waddell, Sherryl Royal, Cushla Simpson.

Middle Row: Miss Boyd-Wilson, Judith McKenzie, Carol Munroe, Miss Prisk, Janet McKenzie, Pamela Hart, Miss Ten Hove.

CRICKETFirst XI

Coach: Mr Masters.

Players: I. Hay (Capt.), B. Riley, P. Connolly, R. Higginson, R. Nixon, S. Kellet, J. Coombs, P. Webb, J. Clark, G. Cox, B. Hughes, D. Stewart, K. Breckon.

The team played three two-day games in the first half of the 1971 season.

Results:

v. Otahuhu, won on 1st innings (Rutherford 129 (Riley 33).

Otahuhu 88 (*Nixon 4/7, Kellet 4/21).

v. Lynfield, lost on 1st innings. Rutherford 162/8 declared (Nixon 38, Hay 33).

Lynfield 185/7 (Nixon 2/37, Breckon 2/42).

v. Marcellin, won on 1st innings. Rutherford 95/7 (Kellet 26 not out).

CRICKET 1st XI

Back Row: G. Cox, I. Midgley, R. Higginson, S. Kellet, J. Coombs, Mr Masters (Coach).

Front Row: K. Breckon, B. Riley, R. Nixon, I. Hay (Capt.), P. Connolly, B. Hughes, B. Webb. *

Marcellin 81 (Kellett 4/18).

* R. Nixon's 4 for 7 against Otahuhu included a hat trick.

JUNIOR

Coach: Mr R. S. McCracken.

Team: K. Breckon, R. Harrison, M. Cherrie, P. McGill, J. Cave, G. Wilson, R. Chissel, M. Jones, C. Cheswick, C. Mulle, I. Henderson, S. Blackmore, G. Ridgeway.

The Junior XI had a satisfactory season. Some of the games were cancelled because of the weather, but of those played three were won.

As is usual for our second eleven we were matched against much larger and older opponents. Special mention must be made of Breckon, whose excellent batting for us resulted in his playing for the First XI for the last few games of the season.

INDOOR BASKETBALL

BOYS

Having commenced the season with staggering number of 100 players (??), the season ended with a dozen loyal and dedicated players in both the Junior and Senior teams. Presumably many of these were lost to local youth clubs; a fate suffered also by other school teams. Consequently our vast potential was not accordingly recognised. Despite this we must heartily congratulate the Junior team for an outstanding performance. They came "runners-up" in both the Western Zone and Auckland League. Wayne Annan (Capt.) and Daniel Suliafu featured predominantly.

The Seniors had an eventful season, narrowly losing twice (17—14, 29—24) to the eventual competition winners M.A.G.S. Highlight of the season was the sponsored game against Avondale in which we won 66—50. A vast sum of money was collected. And also a great effort by the captain of the Seniors, Michael Fitisemanu who scored just over 100 points. It was always a thrill to see his fast stylish breaks and quick goals that characterized his style of play. We wish to thank Peter Letica for his participations in the team coaching and Mr Salter for his loyal efforts in training us and providing transport. Generally speaking, a very successful season, in every way.

BOYS' INDOOR BASKETBALL "A"

Team members:

Junior: W. Annan (Capt.), B. Annan, P. Vulinovich, D. Suliafu, R. Samuels, J. Fitisemanu.

Senior: M. Fitisemanu (Capt.), L. Tolliday, T. Chan, D. Young, M. Vulinovich.

GIRLS

A Team: Clara Swann, Diane Hollingsworth, Janice Armstrong, Grace Smith, Judith Glassey, Beck Ehau, Suzanne Pitman, Alison Willett.

B Team: Kahu Sharman, Jenny Adams, Judy Crowhurst, Jenny Robb, Terry Gustaffson, Judy Hunt, Alison Wells.

For the third year in succession R.H.S. has entered two teams in the Inter-Secondary School competition at the Y.M.C.A.

The B team, all beginners, struggled manfully against more experienced players in the B grade. The A team, in the A grade met competition of a very high standard. Their two wins against Avondale and Takapuna were hard fought and well deserved.

The teams greatly appreciate the support of parents and friends who braved cold winter evenings to watch the teams in action.

BOYS' INDOOR BASKETBALL "B"

Front Row: Glen Creamer, Wayne Annan (Capt.), Brian Annan.

Again the three year old tradition has been maintained and Rutherford High School takes the self-awarded, although widely acknowledged prize for the best dressed team.

The team's coach, Miss Smith, has well-earned all the indoor basketball girls' thanks and respect for the time and enthusiasm she has given the teams.

Indoor basketball has now been firmly established in Rutherford High School. Long may it continue!

GIRLS' INDOOR BASKETBALL "A"

 Middle Row: Janice Armstrong, Diane Hollingsworth.
 Front Row: Judith Glassey, Becky Eha, Suzanne Pitman.

GIRLS' INDOOR BASKETBALL "B"

Back Row: Jenny Adams, Judy Hunt, Terry Gustaffson.
